SUPER-LUCKY . . . Dennis tied with Iowa girl.

Tying Record Puts Crimp In Lucky Friday The 13th

Fourteen-year-old Dennis Hilderbrand thinks Friday the 13th is pretty lucky.

After all, it isn't every day a kid finds an 11-leaf clover.

Dennis and his 10-year-old brother, Craig, had been searching through the cloverpatch in their backyard Thursday night and had found several stems with seven or eight leaves.

Then Friday morning Dennis happened to bend down and "in about a minute" he spied it — an 11-leaf clover destined to break the 10-leaf record listed in the "Guinness Book of World Records."

Or at least that's what Dennis thought.

It seems 13-year-old Tammy Albers, of Holstein, Iowa, also has a claim to the record. Tammy found an 11-leaf clover on her family's farm Thursday.

Apparently, it will be up to the Guinness people to decide which clover will win the certification, or whether there will be a tie.

The current title-holder, a 10-leaf clover, (Trifolium pratense), was discovered by Philippa Smith in Woodborough, Nottinghamshire, England, in 1966.

While waiting for the Guinness decision, Dennis, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hilderbrand, of 3701 NW 54th in Lincoln Air Park West, is going to keep his specimen in a plastic fishhook container so he can show his friends.

Dr. Robert Lommason, professor of botany at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, said the clover, which bears a white flower, is probably Trifolium repens, which is common in Nebraska.

Although the 10-leaf clover discovered in England was of a different species, Dr. Lommason said Dennis' 11-leaf find "is unusual."

"I've never seen that many leaflets on any of our clovers," he said.

House Likes Electric Car But Not Buffalo-Chip Stove

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, having yanked the sharpest tax-hiking teeth out of its energy bill, ended a week's work on the legislation by voting Friday on special tax cuts.

Action is due to resume Tuesday on the remaining parts of the energy measure.

The House agreed to aid development of electric cars, but refused to touch stoves burning wood, buffalo chips or corn husks.

This process of adding special, generally limited, items to a major tax bill is popularly known as turning it into a Christmas tree. The House voted 73 to 31 in favor of giving an estimated $25-million to $35-million tax cut to Americans buying electric-powered cars.

But Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee, who went along with the electric car amendment, spoke against the proposal aimed at giving about $32 million in tax cuts for buying stoves which burn wood and assorted waste.

The stove proposal died 38 to 9 after Ullman said adoption of it would "make the House look rather ridiculous."

The action on these amendments followed votes Thursday in which the House supported a feature to give Americans a special $710 million tax cut for insulating their homes before 1978.

During a week of constantly weakening the energy bill which the Ways and Means Committee had recommended as a Democratic answer to President Ford's energy proposals, the House killed features which would have increased gasoline taxes and would have put a tax on gas-guzzler cars.

Rather than using taxes, the House decided automobile fuel economy standards should be through civil financial penalties on any automaker violating the standard.

General Motors criticized the provision, saying it could actually work against the national goal of conserving gasoline.

"If legislation forces larger cars out of the market — as the bill's ultimate 28-miles-per-gallon minimum certainly would — the likely result is that many will keep the cars they have rather than buy new cars that someone else thinks they should have," the automaker said in a statement.

On Friday, Rep. James G. O'Hara, D-Mich., failed by 86 to 10 on his amendment which would have given a $200 tax cut to those who buy American-made cars getting at least 18 miles a gallon.

Earlier, House Democratic Leader Thomas P. O'Neill of Massachusetts, speaking to reporters, said another White House meeting Friday showed "conciliation is in the air" and he is convinced President Ford wants an energy bill from Congress despite the impasse between the lawmakers and administration on how to hold down oil imports.

According to White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen, Ford told congressional leaders at the meeting: "It is mandatory that we move. We can't wait for a crisis to move. Time is running out."

Reporters were told by Federal Energy Administrator Frank G. Zarb that Ford is willing to work with Congress. "If we're going to have a national energy program, we're going to have to do it with Congress," Zarb said.

"We're going to hammer something out, but it won't be done overnight," said O'Neill. A final energy package, he added, may require individual bills later to fill in the gaps left by the House and Senate in the present bill. The Democratic leader said he expects suggestions from the Republican side. During this week, Republicans have overwhelmingly voted for the weakening amendments to the bill.

Abolition Move Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A move to abolish the strife-torn House Select Intelligence Committee was being planned Friday in the wake of Chairman Lucien N. Nedzi's resignation.

"Why do we have to have a bunch of guys fiddling around and possibly jeopardizing the CIA?" said Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., in confirming the move. "It seems to me clear this is not going to be a responsible inquiry."

Stratton accused Select Central Intelligence Agency Subcommittee Chairman James V. Stanton, D-Ohio, of leaking secret information by making a statement that the CIA was involved in the assassination of at least one foreign leader.

On the Senate side, meanwhile, Intelligence Committee Chairman Frank Church said so far no evidence has been found linking any U.S. chief executive with the assassination of a foreign leader.

Resolutions to abolish the House committee have already been drafted, Stratton said, but it has not been determined who will make the move in the House.

Rep. Richard Bolling, D-Mo., a senior member of the House Rules Committee, which would have to originate a resolution to abolish the committee, said he is considering introducing the resolution himself.

Both Stratton and Bolling said the strategy will be to force a House vote on rejecting Nedzi's resignation to show confidence in him — and then introduce the resolution to abolish the committee.

Nedzi resigned Thursday, telling newsmen it had become clear that he would be in constant conflict with the five committee Democrats who mounted a drive last week to force him out.

Members of the House committee indicated they have been given information indicating the CIA had at least some involvement in a plot to kill President Rafael Trujillo of the Dominican Republic.

New York Times reporter Nicholas M. Hoorock Thursday reported authoritative government sources as saying the spy agency gave "material support" to a group of Dominicans who ambushed Trujillo and shot him to death on May 31, 1961.

Church would not confirm or deny that report, but said former CIA director Richard M. Helms had been questioned extensively in closed session Friday about other alleged assassination plots, most of them involving Cuban premier Fidel Castro.

And in Toledo, Ohio, industrialist Edward Lamb said he witnessed an attempt to kill Castro in 1969.

Lamb said he was present when a Cuban soldier shot at Castro but missed him. Later, Lamb said, he was informed by Castro's doctor, Dr. Rene Vallejo, that the soldier admitted he had been working for the CIA.

Church said the committee's investigation into alleged assassination plots extends from the late 1950s to the mid-1960s, during the terms of three presidents.

He said the committee is attempting to learn the line of authority under which the CIA operated and to discover whether or not any of the three presidents personally authorized or knew of assassination plots or murder attempts.

"I would have to say that thus far the committee has no evidence that would directly link the CIA involvement in this kind of activities with the president of the United States," Church said.

Church said his committee is more concerned with determining how decisions were made than in passing on individual blame or guilt.

Helms permitted news photographers to take pictures at the beginning of the session but declined to speak with reporters.

Meanwhile, in Fairfax, Va., a city policeman said Friday he participated in a late-night operation four years ago in which Central Intelligence Agency personnel broke into a local photographic studio.

Robert Fleck, 45, said he sat in a police car in a parking lot with instructions to stop anyone who tried to go up the staircase to the second floor studio.

Fleck said four or five men, including then-Police Chief Murray Kutner and others he was told were CIA agents, were upstairs for three or four hours after midnight sometime in February, 1971.

The Rockefeller Commission said in its report that "only one instance has been discovered where local police actively participated in a CIA operation. In 1971, three police officers from the Fairfax City Police Department accompanied Office of Security personnel while they surreptitiously entered a business establishment in Fairfax, at night, without a warrant, to photograph some papers."

The establishment was identified as Roland Studio. The Washington Star said the studio, no longer in existence, was operated then by Deborah Fitzgerald, a former CIA file clerk, and Orlando Nunez de Villavicencio del Toro, a former official in the Castro government in Cuba who had defected to the United States.

Questioned by the Star, the couple, who have since married, said they were unaware of the break-in.

Strikers Slowing Building

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

For the second time this spring, Lincoln construction projects may grind to a halt.

Roughly 100 members of the Lincoln ironworkers union have been staying off the job since Monday. They are seeking a one-year contract and a $1.10-an-hour increase in wages.

Dean Kratz, a negotiator for the Building Contractor Employers Association, said the strike has slowed work on many projects both in Lincoln and Omaha.

But he said if the strike isn't settled soon, all work will have to halt.

Burt Sexton, a Lincoln spokesman for Ironworkers Local 21, said the sites are not being picketed and the other trades are being allowed to work.

However, he agreed that all work will halt shortly if ironworkers are not back on the job.

Not All Projects

Sexton said the strike involves only BCEA contractors and not projects where the contractor has signed an international agreement.

Consequently, structural steel work being performed on the State Office Building site by Allied Steel, on the National Bank of Commerce site by J.D. Steel, and on the Hallam Power Station by Power Systems, is proceeding, he said.

However, Olson Construction Co. which is also working on the State Office Building, Geo. Cook Co. which has the NU Fieldhouse contract, Kingery, Anderson and Nelson construction companies are being struck.

Home construction is not affected by the strike.

Ironworkers presently earn $9.15 an hour base pay under a three-year contract negotiated last year. The contract provides for reopening negotiations on wages at the beginning of the second and third years of the contract.

June 1 was the day the contract was reopened.

Omaha Meeting Monday
Gordon McDonald, business representative for the ironworkers in Omaha, said no meetings are scheduled between negotiators in Lincoln. However, he said one is scheduled for Monday in Omaha.

Contractors, he said, have made no offers thus far, adding that it appears the strike will be a long one.

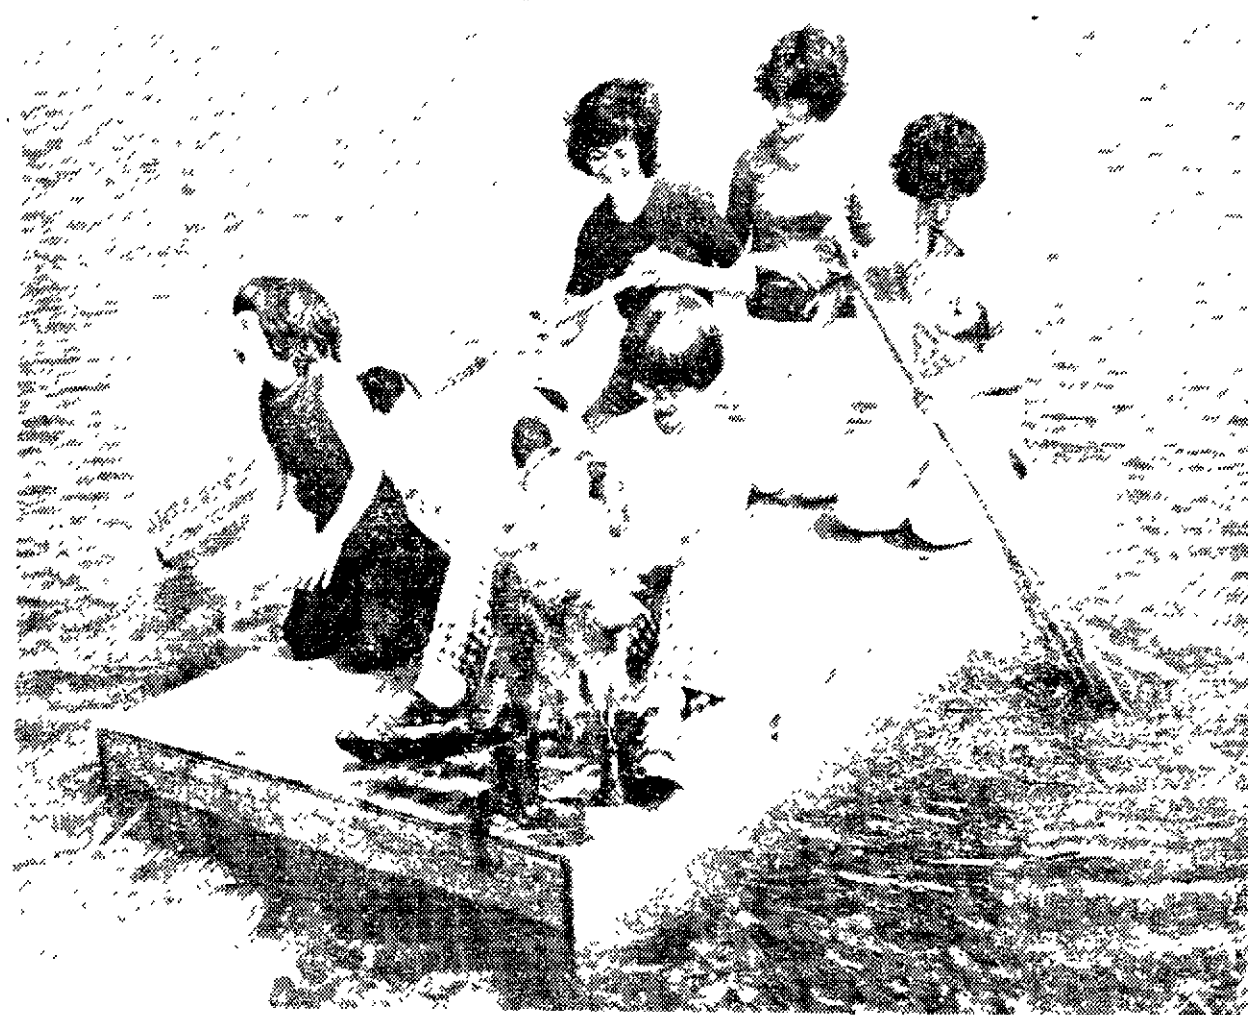

A strike by the painters union in May idled construction projects for nine days.

FAMILY DOG . . . joins the five Brusnahan kids on the milk bottle float.

Youth-in-Action It's A Lot O' Bottles Keeping 'Em Afloat

By PATTY BEUTLER
Star Staff Writer

It takes 128 plastic gallon milk bottles to keep the Brusnahan bunch afloat. But if you looked at their wooden box raft, you'd never guess the secret of the buoyancy, well-sealed inside.

The five kids, ranging in age from 6 to 15, credit their dad with constructing the floating water toy. But they're quick to claim their share in the project by having collected bottles from their milk-drinking friends.

Many Hours Of Service

Completed just two weeks ago, the raft has seen many hours of good service on the recent sunny days. A diving platform for some and a sunning spot for others, the float provides new forms of fun for this rural crew.

Summer for the five revolves around the small lake on their folks' property in Denton. Dubbed the Denton Airport, the 300-acre land parcel, mostly under farm management, has a landing strip used by their father Paul Brusnahan, a charter pilot.

But Janet, 15, and Paul, 13, find the airfield makes a pretty nifty tennis court, even without a net.

When you're 15 miles out of Lincoln and too young to drive, you find plenty of things to do in your own back yard, the Brusnahan's agree.

'Do Stuff Together'

"We generally do stuff together because we don't have much choice, you know," Janet laughed.

An old boxcar-like grain storage bin, which came with the property, has been turned into a clubhouse-playroom by Peggy, 12; Karen, 11; and Jill, 6. And part of an abandoned barn has been converted into a one-room schoolhouse with the help of some old desks from Lincoln High School.

Riding a go-cart around the place, something city kids can't do, provides another form of entertainment. Even 6-year-old Jill gets to ride by herself.

But there's work to do as well as play. Their dad planted a garden, and each of the kids has a row to weed daily. And there are some 35 chickens to tend to — a task Janet and Paul share as they do the revenue from the sale of eggs.

Other Advantages

Country-living has other less tangible advantages, the youngsters say.

"Ever since we moved out here, I've gotten closer to my parents," Janet confides. "And you really get to appreciate life," she said. "We even found two badgers on our driveway the other morning."

But there are disadvantages too, the kids admit, like being so far from their friends in the city.

"When you're here you've just got your sisters and sometimes you get tired of them," Peggy complained.

"I don't know what I'd do without the telephone," Janet sighed, echoing the general consensus.

But Peggy and Paul have their own special complaints: she has hay fever and he's allergic to wasps.

School To Get New Home

A Saunders County one-room schoolhouse, built in the 1830s, will be moved to the State Fairgrounds Monday as part of a bicentennial project called Heritage Village.

District 113 school, also known as Cunningham School, will be used during the coming year to acquaint Lincoln elementary students with the history of education in Nebraska.

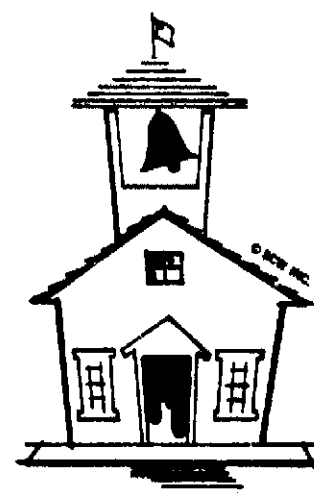

Heritage Village will eventually include a general store and the Hudson log cabin, one of the first homes built in the town of Lancaster, which later became Lincoln.

The old-time village will occupy the triangular block of land just east of the north entrance to the State Fairgrounds on 17th St.

The State Fair Board, Nebraska State Historical Society, Lincoln Junior League and the Lincoln Public Schools are all working on the restoration project.

Cunningham School, which will be moved from a site west of Wahoo, is named for John Cunningham, a farmer on whose land the original school stood. Records indicate the first building, built in the 19th Century, burned down in the 1930s.

The school was abandoned in 1968 when the district was divided up and incorporated into three adjoining districts. At one time, 32 students crowded into the school, sitting three to a desk.

Soviet Leader Urges Ban On New Weapons

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev raised the possibility Friday of a new generation of destructive arms and urged a big power ban on the development of "even more terrible weapons than nuclear ones."

The Communist party chief did not specify what kind of weaponry he had in mind but said modern technology has the power to create new systems of mass destruction which are not yet covered in any international arms control pact.

He specifically proposed that the United States join the Soviet Union in spearheading an international agreement on this issue.

The Soviet Union and the United States, the first countries to develop atomic bombs, have signed various accords to limit the proliferation, testing and development of nuclear weapons. They have also agreed to an international ban on environmental warfare. They are currently negotiating a limitation on missiles armed with multiple nuclear warheads.

In Washington, sources said the only weapons they know are being researched are laser, development of which is still 10 years away.

In a nationally televised speech accepting nomination to the Russian federation parliament, Brezhnev pointed to limited progress so far in controlling the arms race and added:

"I would like to stress the significance of one important question. It has not yet been reflected in agreements between states, which, in our belief becomes more and more timely and more acute, and cannot be shunted aside."

"The matter concerns the fact that countries, especially large countries, sign an agreement to prohibit the creation of new types of weapons of mass destruction, new systems of such weaponry. The level of our modern science and technology is such that it appears there is a serious danger of creating even more terrible weapons than nuclear ones."

"The wisdom and conscience of humanity dictate that we set an insurmountable barrier to the appearance of such weaponry," Brezhnev said.

The 68-year-old Soviet leader did not propose how to initiate such an agreement or give a timetable for its realization. He said only, "The Soviet Union and United States of America, acting in the same direction, could, in our opinion, make no small contribution."

The United States and the Soviet Union possess nuclear and hydrogen bombs capable of killing more than twice the population of the human race, so it is unclear what new destructive plateaus could be reached beyond improving delivery systems.

There have been proposals for launching nuclear fragmentary bombs from space, but there is no evidence to suggest they have left the drawing board stage.

It's Udderly Unusual

It's unusual when the baby is bigger than its adopted mother. And this tale is udderly unusual. It seems that down in Uvalde, Tex., Manza Hale's Santa Gertrudis calf lost its mother. And in the same town, Cody Brown's Alpine-Nubian goat recently lost her kids. So Hale and Brown got their animals together. The goat even jumps up on a table to facilitate the feeding procedure.

Con Men Slow

OSCEOLA, Iowa (AP) — A fly-by-night con scheme backfired this week when the perpetrators failed to leave town soon enough.

Clarke County authorities charged four South Carolina men with obtaining money under false pretenses after 11 farmers complained that their barn paint jobs washed off when it rained.

Some farmers paid as much as $1,250 to have their buildings painted, sheriff's deputies said. The men were each fined $100.

Jackson Reopens Pools

Jackson, Miss. — The City of Jackson opened nine new public swimming pools Friday, a dozen years after it drained its old pools and let trees spring up through their cracked bottoms rather than desegregate them. The reopening went off without a hitch and was a rather typical example of the tumbling of old racial barriers across the south these days.

Lending Facility Planned

Paris — Finance ministers of rich and poor countries decided Friday to establish a new lending facility of the World Bank that would make up to $1 billion of low-cost loans to developing countries in the next year. The United States, however, declined to contribute.

Gandhi Goes To People

New Delhi, India — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, determined to remain in power despite a court ruling that she won her seat in parliament illegally, took her case to the people at a number of street rallies. Her opponents, meanwhile, demanded that she resign at once, even before the supreme court rules on her appeal.

More Refugees To Come

Washington — The United States is preparing to admit a sizeable number of political refugees from Chile, the State Department announced Friday.

Violence Becomes Norm

New York — Crime and violence, in varying degrees, have become the norm in schools throughout the country.

Testimony Said Misleading

Washington — The chairman of the House oversight and investigations subcommittee accused a Texas oil executive, Stanley T. Walker, Friday of having given the Federal Power Commission "incomplete, inaccurate and misleading" testimony. He referred the matter to the Justice Department for possible criminal investigation.

Rats Infest White House

Washington (UPI) — Someone spotted one of the intruders near President Ford's office recently and, down in the White House basement, they say you hear things going bump in the night.

In short, there are rats in the White House.

Mice, too. And some disgruntled officials are blaming the whole thing on Richard M. Nixon.

"It all goes back to four years ago when Nixon took that terrible helicopter ride over the Mall," the broad grassy strip that sweeps through downtown Washington and past the White House backyard, said one official.

"He looked down from the helicopter and asked an aide what were those unsightly buildings cluttering up the mall."

"But did he know what was inside those old four-story monsters? I guess not. Those buildings were crawling with rodents."

Nixon ordered the buildings torn down, the official said.

And out came hordes of rodents in search of new quarters.

"Tearing down those Mall buildings and the current excavation for a new building next door on 17th Street has given us a rat invasion," the official said.

Nixon's chief of staff, Gen. Alexander M. Haig, heard so many rats scurrying to and fro behind his office baseboards he nicknamed the area "the Ho Chi Minh Trail."

The rat-catchers went to work in earnest after Ford entered the White House, using peanut butter as the main lure. They figured, optimistically, they had knocked off their last rodent last October.

But now a mouse has been seen foraging just down the hall from Ford's office.

And in some of the basement offices, late at night, one can hear the pitter-patter of little feet scurrying about in the ceiling.

Teachers Denied Jobless Benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford on Friday ended the possibility that elementary and high school teachers, principal administrators and researchers might get federal jobless benefits during students' summer vacation.

The President signed a $15 billion supplemental appropriations bill that contained a provision denying such benefits during the period between school years if the teachers, researchers or principal administrators have contracts for both academic terms.

The matter involved a federally financed special unemployment assistance program which gives benefits to roughly 12-million state and local government employees, household workers and farm-workers whose jobs had not been covered by such laws until Congress first moved into this area last December.

Several states indicated they could find no provision in their own laws by which they could deny benefits during the time between academic terms.

Rep. John N. Erlenborn, R-Ill., who brought the matter to the attention of the House Ways and Means Committee, said the Labor Department advised him several states were ready to let their teachers claim this federal compensation during the summer months.

He said the department identified the states as Illinois, Arkansas, Indiana, Kansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Montana, New Mexico, New Jersey, North Carolina, South Dakota, Texas, Vermont, Colorado, Massachusetts, Missouri, New Hampshire, Kentucky and Tennessee.

By law, Congress already required that college and university teachers, researchers and administrators with contracts must be denied jobless benefits between terms. Similar treatment was provided to such employees of primary and secondary schools under provisions of the $15 billion appropriations bill and a separate $6 billion emergency extension, expansion and revision bill covering the federal government's law which provides temporary programs of benefits for the jobless. The House has passed the extension bill 381 to 8 and sent it to the Senate. It has the approval of the Food administration.

The supplemental appropriations bill was produced by the House Appropriations Committee.

Thailand Reinforces Naval Force

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Thailand ordered elements of the border police on full alert Friday and beefed up its naval forces off the southeastern coast following a sea duel with Cambodian gunboats, government sources said.

Two patrol boats and a destroyer-type vessel were dispatched to the disputed waters 200 miles southeast of Bangkok, where a gun battle erupted Thursday leaving one Cambodian vessel sunk and six Thai marine police wounded, the sources said.

Police said a Thai gunboat went to the rescue of a fishing trawler, which had been seized by the Khmer Rouge about 20 miles off the Thai coast, and ran into a hail of fire from two small Cambodian vessels. One of the Khmer Rouge vessels was sunk, but the Thais were unable to rescue the fishing boat with about 30 crewmen aboard.

The fate of the fishermen was not known.

The Khmer Rouge are the Communist-led rebels who took over Cambodia in April.

Disaster Worker Says Vietnamese Case 'Different'

Mellenie Estes knows well the aftermath moods and activities in disasters such as floods and hurricanes, but a camp filled with over 100,000 refugees is something else.

Ms. Estes, director of nursing and health for the Cornhusker Division of the American Red Cross, was one of 16 Red Cross staff members who went to Guam at the end of April to work with the Vietnamese refugees there.

"The past disaster experience was helpful, but this was very different," she said. "I kept telling myself 'I can't believe I'm really here.'"

"It was so hot. When I'd drive into the camp and leave my car for a few minutes, I'd come back to find huddles of people sitting around it trying to find some shade."

Recruited 140 Nurses

During her five-week assignment in Guam, Ms. Estes helped recruit 140 nurses from the island to work with

Mellenie Estes refugees and assisted in various camp details, such as feeding and clothing the refugees, providing mail delivery, reuniting families, setting up schools for children and mothers and helping in the camp hospitals.

The whole situation "may have appeared chaotic, but everyone's immediate needs were being met," she said. "Everyone had housing; everyone was being fed and clothed. They might have to stand in line for a long time to get what they needed, but still it was available."

Ms. Estes had praise for the Vietnamese refugees, who displayed patience and good spirits.

"I saw a lot of refugees arriving. All of them seemed to be happy — generally pleased to be on American territory," she explained. "Naturally, they have fears. They are in a strange country, they don't speak the language. They have left their homes and all of their belongings."

What most impressed the Red Cross nurse, who returned to the U.S. during the past week, was the refugees' willingness to help each other. Often Vietnamese physicians offered to stay longer than was necessary to help where they could, she said, and those speaking English volunteered to serve as interpreters.

Couldn't Have Done It

"They really did help each other," she said. "We couldn't have functioned at all if it wouldn't have been for the Vietnamese who offered to help."

Although she understands the attitudes of U.S. citizens who contend that, among other things, this country's unemployment rate is too high to allow the refugees to relocate here, she believes the U.S. can easily absorb those refugees seeking placement.

"We're only talking about a little over 100,000 people," she said, "and only one-third of these are heads of households who will be seeking jobs."

"That is not a lot of people. There were several hundred thousand Cubans who sought refuge here during the Cuban crisis."

She contrasted the slow acceptance of Americans to the people of Guam, who, "for the most part, received the Vietnamese with warmth."

Tropical Storm Danger

However, Ms. Estes' greatest concern right now — one that even supercedes the question of U.S. acceptance — is the danger of refugees in the Guam camps during the current tropical storm and typhoon season.

"They (camp personnel) do have an evacuation plan for removing the people in the event of a tropical storm," she said.

"There is no way they can move all those people" to places of safety in an emergency situation.

LT&T Property Tax Bill Cut By 16% In Lancaster

Lincoln Telephone & Telegraph Co. (LT&T) will have its personal property tax bill reduced by about 16% for the 1975 tax year, under an out-of-court settlement between the company and Lancaster County.

The personal property of LT&T, one of the county's biggest taxpayers, was valued at $48.7 million, and under the settlement the actual value is reduced to $40 million for the 1975 tax year.

Using the existing mill levy the telephone company's 1975 tax bill, under the settlement, is $1,228,266. The bill, before settlement, would have been $1,533,650.

The out-of-court settlement stems from a law suit LT&T filed against the county contending its personal property tax bill was unfair because the county values personal property at its full market value, but undervalues real estate.

LT&T filed similar lawsuits against personal property tax assessments in 14 other Nebraska counties. Some of these counties have reached out-of-court settlements with the company ranging from an 8% to a 16% reduction in personal property tax bills.

Bike, Car Crash Breaks Wrist Of Lincoln Boy

A Lincoln boy suffered minor injuries Friday morning when his bicycle collided with a car at 20th and South, police said.

Ronnie L. Smidberg, 15, of 2672 Sewell, was listed in good condition at Lincoln General Hospital Friday night with a broken wrist.

Police said Clara Rausch, 80, of 1720 S. 21st, was eastbound on South and attempting a left turn onto 20th when her car collided with Smidberg's eastbound bicycle. The bicycle glanced off the car and hit another car, driven by Jack F. Lefink, 79, of 1401 S. 20th, which was stopped on 20th, police said.

Separate Purse Snatchings Linked

Two Lincoln women had their purses snatched in the past two weeks, possibly by the same individuals, according to city police.

Purse snatching is not a common crime in Lincoln, police said, and both of the recent snatchings have been in the same area — between 38th and 48th Sts. and between Van Dorn and Calvert Sts.

The teenage boys did not get much money for their trouble, according to police reports.

About two weeks ago a 60-year-old woman, walking home from a S. 48th St. grocery store had her purse grabbed from her arm. The two teenage boys took a few dollars from the purse before abandoning it. But they missed the $80 the woman had hidden in a fold of the purse, police said.

A 61-year-old woman walking along S. 38th St. near Sheridan Blvd. was knocked to the ground Thursday when a teenage boy grabbed her purse.

Brunzell Elected CLU Unit's Chief

Paul F. Brunzell, CLU, was elected president of the Lincoln chapter of Chartered Life Underwriters at its annual meeting Friday.

Other officers elected were: Deo Wolfe, CLU, vice president; Richard H. Tavis, CLU, secretary-treasurer; and Harold J. Dawson, CLU, board member.

32 Join YCC Program

Thirty-two students are going to be learning about the Lincoln park system in more ways than one.

The teenagers will be doing manual labor, taking field trips, listening to lectures and participating in projects of Youth Conservation Corp. (YCC).

The park workers are between 16 and 18 years of age and were selected from 75 applicants, parks officials said.

The students will be divided into six teams, assigned to various park districts and rotated on a two-week basis.

A requirement of the YCC program is that the participants spend a quarter of their time in educational work. One such project is a meeting with Games and Parks Commission officials to learn about waterfowl, native plantings and arboretums at Branched Oak and Twin Lakes and to discuss erosion and recreational uses of the Salt Valley watershed lakes.

The YCC program, which city officials considered a success after last year's initiation, will be under the direction of Park Supt. Dick Hilligus and Dr. Esther Bennett.

City Councilman Bob Sikyta was instrumental in initiating the YCC program in Lincoln last summer.

Truck Driver Robbed In Iowa

Fort Dodge, Iowa (UPI) — Two men were arrested shortly after a truck driver told police he was stopped and robbed on U.S. 169 near here.

Arrested and charged with robbery were Larry Koele, 25, of Hull and George Nuzum, 19, of White Cloud, Kan. They were being held in the city jail in lieu of $25,000 bond.

Police said driver Vernon Rowm of Waterloo told them he was stopped by two men who were armed with a .38-caliber pistol and demanded cash.

VFW Convention Parade Saturday

A downtown parade Saturday will highlight the 55th annual VFW state convention which weekend in Lincoln.

The parade, to begin at 9 a.m., will be followed by a banquet Saturday night, during which the Voice of Democracy speech contest winner will be named.

During the convention, veterans are expected to make a proposal against a blanket amnesty and to applaud President Ford for his actions in the Mayaguez incident.

Thone Shifts On Mining Bill

Earlier this week the U.S. House of Representatives failed by three votes to override President Ford's veto of the controversial strip mining control bill. In the face of a surge in presidential popularity, the override attempt came far closer than had been imagined in the days immediately preceding the vote, but not close enough. Intense White House lobbying paid off.

The bill would have set federal standards for surface mining of coal — which currently accounts for about half of domestic coal production — and required reclamation of all lands disturbed by the process. The Ford administration argued — not altogether honestly, in our opinion — that the bill would have forced the reduction of coal production in this nation, increased our reliance on foreign oil, caused the loss of up to 36,000 jobs and forced an increase in utility bills. Supporters of the measure, briefly, think that surface mining and reclamation of the mined land to a productive state should and can go together, even if it means a modest increase in the price of coal. To not demand appropriate standards for reclamation will cost far more in the long run both in terms of esthetics and productivity, they claim, and we agree with them.

What we are really talking about is the preservation of our natural heritage. The scars on the land in dead surface mining areas speak sorrowfully as to how we have regarded that obligation in the past. Those who want to continue a policy of exploiting the resources of the nation without caring about the consequences can fairly be accused of a rapacious, selfish attitude which is in arrogant disregard of future generations.

Kearney Program Lapses

Kearney State College's World Affairs Conference, which has been held annually for the past dozen years, is now part of the past — doomed apparently by inflation.

It was overall a high potential program which brought diplomatic figures from the world over to the central Nebraska college campus to discuss issues and exchange ideas with students and other interested persons. In recent years, high school students from scores of communities attended at least one and often both days of the conference as did college students and business and industrial leaders from Nebraska and throughout the midwest.

"We submitted to the Legislature (last session) a request in the amount of $16,000 for funding of the World Affairs Conference," said Kearney State President Brendan McDonald. "The Legislature did not support our request for an appropriation."

MARQUIS CHILDS

King At A Crossroad

KING HUSSEIN

AMMAN, Jordan — The red, green and white flags of Jordan and Syria and the welcoming arches make a brave show in honor of visiting Syrian President Hafeez el Assad. A short time ago it was President Anwar Sadat of Egypt as the Arab nations seek unity in the face of the threat of still another Middle East war. Jordan's King Hussein is a key figure in this search.

His country, dismembered after the 1967 war with Israel, would be the first to be overrun if not destroyed in any new conflict with no possibility of neutrality.

Not yet 40, the king repeatedly has shown his courage and his resolution in two wars with Israel and in a prolonged ordeal of civil strife with the Palestinian commandos that nearly brought down his rule. Dressed in a checked sport shirt open at the throat, in his modest office in his palace on a hilltop near the capital, he talked of his foreboding for the future.

He says he hopes there can be further step-by-step disengagement between Egypt and Israel. But he does not conceal his fears.

Israel today has a greater military force than ever before, he said. That force has been acquired at the expense of the domestic economy. Israeli superiority will last a few years, in the king's view, and this may be a temptation to strike swiftly and put an end to the growing strength of the Arab states and Arab unity.

They are playing for time and during this time they are making no contribution to peace. They may find a pretext to use their military might. But we continue to hope that the United States will, in the current reassessment, be able to persuade Israel to make the concession essential for a peace settlement.

As with every Arab leader, the king's goal is a return to the Israeli borders prior to the conquests of the six-day war in 1967. For Hussein, this means the return of the west bank of the Jordan River and that part of Jerusalem which, prior to the '67 war, was under Jordanian authority.

The king expressed his deep concern over the Israeli buildup of settlements on the west bank currently being pushed by the government in Jerusalem. This has become an acute political issue in Israel with angry young demonstrators protesting any restraint on the buildup.

The settlements rising in what was once his territory seem to the king evidence that the Israelis never intend to give it up. "I have failed for a long time," he said, "to convey to Washington my concern for this development."

He left no doubt of his conviction of the direct involvement of the United States not only in the effort to find a Middle East settlement but in arming Israel

Rep. Morris Udall, the Arizona Democrat who led the veto override attempt, has vowed to continue to fight for a surface mining control bill yet this session. "This thing isn't dead. The fight's got to go on . . ." Udall said.

It seems to us that Udall is licked this session, but maybe not. His forces will have to win back the support it had and lost to the White House and the coal lobby in the clench.

One such congressman is Rep. Charles Thone, R-Neb., who has talked out of both sides of his mouth on this issue.

Thone commendably voted in favor of the strip mining control bill when it passed 293-115 — more than the two-thirds majority need for an override — while Nebraska's other two House members voted against it. But then Thone failed to support the move to override, as did Mrs. Smith from the Third District and John McCollister from the Second District. At least the latter two were consistent.

First District Congressman Thone was quoted in one newspaper as saying that in the weeks since the bill passed the House, the situation was brought into "much sharper focus." "With the energy crunch the way it is," Thone was quoted as saying, "I don't see how we can move in this direction now."

The way Thone sounds, the entire energy picture has dramatically shifted since early May when the bill was passed.

It hasn't, of course. It appears that the only thing that changed in the intervening weeks was Charley Thone's mind. We wish he would have stayed with the bill and we hope he again will see that coal production and land reclamation can go hand in hand.

"An inflationary rise in costs and competition for program dollars required us to seek state funds," he said.

Jim Smith, conference director, is seeking support to reopen the conference. He correctly notes that it is not just a Kearney project, but "relates to the region and the state." Smith hopes a one-year layoff will "give us time to develop efforts to bring about stabilized funding."

If the conference helped to spark an interest among midlands people in world affairs, if it gave them added exposure to differing concepts, if it raised their awareness or in any way enriched their intellectual and cultural lives, wasn't it worth $16,000?

It is pointless to fault either the Kearney administrators or the Legislature for the lapse of the World Affairs Conference. Perhaps its value was diminishing. But if not, hopefully a solid financial footing can be found for it.

BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — It shouldn't take very long before the CIA's assassination files are leaked to the press. We'll get them even sooner if President Ford adamantly demands that the attorney general, the Justice Department and congressmen who have been shown these secret details of the Rockefeller report keep their respective traps shut. Washington is about as leak-proof as a busted sieve.

A few minor changes will be made in our huge espionage system but, like the embattled city of New York, things will continue pretty much as before — when the reforms end. We'll still have agents spread around the U.S. No nation is likely to accept an interesting suggestion Nikita Khrushchev once made to CIA director Allan Dulles.

Mr. K. recommended that the U.S. and the Soviet Union cut their spy divisions in half and save millions of dollars a year. "After all," he said to our tweedy, pipe-smoking Master Spy, "they're all double agents."

The Russian probably was not kidding. He had done some undercover work himself during the years leading up to taking over in the wake of Stalin. His was largely internal activities on the Red army and among closet dissidents. Nobody will ever know how many heads rolled because of the machinations of that jolly little extrovert.

The Rockefeller exposures cannot conceivably bring about any serious cutback on the part of the CIA. If the U.S. didn't have a CIA it would have to create something exactly like it — just as it is traditional and sensible to have bombers, atomic submarines, nuclear bombs and spying satellites as good or better than the other side's. Detente is largely a thin coating of vanilla icing covering a large bowl of lethal nuts and bolts.

The Nixon administration took certain solace in pointing at previous administrations as having been just as wicked and cynical, which was something like Lee Harvey Oswald's preparing a defense that it was okay to shoot John F. Kennedy because John Wilkes Booth had shot Abraham Lincoln.

True, Nixon didn't invent the surreptitious shenanigans which eventually sent him into exile; he and his associates simply refined them. So it is with the CIA. Even a fast thumbing-through the Encyclopedia Britannica's article on espionage makes this abundantly clear.

Spying at home and abroad is as old as recorded history. The Pharaohs had a CIA 5,000 years ago, just as Sadat has today. Joan of Arc was betrayed by a spy employed by the King of England.

Agents have sometimes become folk heroes and heroines. Maj. John Andre was put to death on orders from George Washington himself, for plotting with Gen. Benedict Arnold for a British takeover of West Point. The plaque marking the spot where he was hanged at Washington's Tappan, N.Y., headquarters reads that he was a real nice gent.

"Major Andre's charming personality and his talents in the arts had won him many American friends, who mourned him as a romantically tragic young man," sighs the Columbia

Encyclopedia, speaking of the bloke who tried to throttle the U.S. in its cradle!

No computer could calculate the number of avid readers of spy stories or viewers of spy films and TV dramas. People have instinctively liked spies for countless generations. Walter Mitty dreamed of being one. So did E. Howard Hunt. He made it.

Lincoln and Jefferson Davis were loaded with spies during the Civil War. Davis received full reports on all of Lincoln's secret meetings with his war planners within 48 hours after the closed-door mutterings, thanks to a lady named Rose Greenhow, who had good White House connections. Another beautiful spy, Belle Boyd, made her way under fire through the Federal lines to tip off Stonewall Jackson that the Feds were a 'comin', and Stonewall shot hell out of three battalions of them. Lincoln hired Pinkerton.

The world of World War I, both sides, mourned the execution of Mata Hari. And early in World War II, it marveled at the inventiveness of a spy named Alfred Wehring, a former German Navy captain who lived quietly in Kirkwall, Scotland — so quietly, in fact, that the British didn't know until too late that he was sending clandestine radio reports on warship movements in Scapa Flow. U-boats sank the battleship "Royal Oak" as a result.

The U.S. joined the major leagues of espionage with the formation of the Office of Strategic Services, forerunner of the CIA, now an enormous outfit whose employees and operatives have included Mike Burke of Madison Square Garden, Moe Berg, the educated baseball catcher, Francis Gary Powers, of U-2 notoriety, and Howard Hughes and his submarine-salvager. We put the Rosenbergs to death for passing along information we now gladly give away.

Moods change in espionage but, like England, there'll always be a CIA and dozens more just like it. At least until, millions of years hence, man trusts man.

R. W. APPLE, JR.

NEW ORLEANS — Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama is a bone in the throat of the Democratic Party that will not be dislodged quickly or easily.

That was the principal political conclusion that emerged from the 67th annual National Governors Conference, which ended Wednesday. It was a conclusion that underlay nearly every discussion of the 1976 campaign in New Orleans these last four days.

Wallace described the situation with his usual pungency in a talk Tuesday to a Rotary Club.

"I'm just sitting here, not straining a bit," he said, "and it seems I'm all that the other ones talk about."

The Democratic national chairman, Robert S. Strauss, said the other day, "There is no stop-Wallace movement in this party." There is none, not because Democratic leaders don't want one, but because every strategist they think up seems to rebound to Wallace's benefit.

The search for a way to sidetrack him has been under way for more than a year now.

There was the effort to erode his Southern base by doing away with the primaries in several states. Quick visits to North Carolina and Tennessee by Wallace, a few thrusts at anti-Democratic tactics, and that gambit was unceremoniously abandoned.

The only state in which it worked was New Mexico, and it worked there because the repeal law was passed in almost total secrecy. But politicians in that state are now fretting about the possibility of a pro-Wallace backlash in 1976.

Then there was the idea of entering favorite sons in key primaries to stop the Alabamian, but most of the favorite sons wanted no part of it.

Gov. Edwin W. Edwards of Louisiana said that neither he nor anyone else could stop Wallace there. Gov. Reubin Askew of Florida said that he thought he might have a chance to do so, but was not about to try. Gov. Ray Blanton of Tennessee said that he had not decided yet, but feared that he would tear his state party apart if he tried.

There has been desultory private talk among some of the candidates and some of the governors about trying to arrange things so only one candidate would oppose Wallace in each state, to avoid splitting the anti-Wallace vote.

But all the candidates admit that they could never agree among themselves on how to do this, and that even if they could, some states — such as Florida — put the names of all declared candidates on the ballot automatically.

Strauss says that he could never take the lead in this sort of arrangement. Indeed, he has concluded, according to his associates, that there is nothing he can do to impeded Wallace's progress except to encourage Democratic office-holders to say whatever they want to.

The result has been a series of uncoordinated and often contradictory attacks. Gov. Calvin L. Rampton of Utah, the outgoing chairman of the Governors Conference, said that he could not support a ticket that included Wallace. Gov. Philip W. Noel of Rhode Island, the incoming chairman of the conference indicated that he could.

Gov. William L. Waller of Mississippi and others said that Wallace's health — his paralysis following an attempted assassination in 1972 and his impaired hearing — was the problem. Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre of New Hampshire and Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona have been saying that Wallace's record is the problem.

Gov. Askew went so far as to suggest a kind of loyalty oath — a promise from Wallace that he would support the Democratic ticket next year regardless of the nominees. Wallace pounced on that one: How could they ask that of him when many of them were saying that they could not support a ticket including him?

So Wallace works his old themes, crying out about "this feeling of frustration and almost hostility on the part of our average auto worker, businessman and farmer about some of the ultra-liberal dogma that has been rammed down their throats."

And so the governors and senators who oppose him develop their own "feeling of frustration and almost hostility" about their seeming inability to tap the same emotions that he does and to take away his constituency.

Gov. Marvin Mandel of Maryland, ordinarily a calm and thoroughly controlled man, exclaimed at a closed-door Democratic luncheon that his party was "running pell-mell toward a political disaster." And he replied to a reporter who asked him how Wallace could be stopped:

"That's easy. You refuse to push his wheelchair."

Challenges Statement

A recent article in The Star (April 18) quoted Rev. Jerry Dunn to the effect that all the directors of the Lincoln Indian Center have been fired for alcoholic or other drug-related problems.

This serious misstatement creates a misconception that should be corrected.

Irresponsible Journalism of this sort will make it more difficult to staff a vital social agency, and unjustly misrepresents the facts in regard to the individuals involved.

Controlling Bird Numbers

Lincoln, Neb. Jay Person in "Dove-Hunting Draws Fire" (June 5 Star) apparently is unfamiliar with hunting, as his accusations against the hunter are lacking in foundation. Who, for example, pays for wildlife management through the purchase of hunting permits issued by the state? It is certainly not the non-hunter!

Person points out a decline in the bird population. It is not due to hunting, as he would have us believe, but because of better farming methods, more land being cultivated, and the growth of cities, all of which destroy habitat but are none the less necessary to our growth and to supply food to the people.

Hunters actually help birds by reducing their numbers. Since the land can no longer support as many birds, large numbers would die in the winter because of starvation. These are the birds that hunters take, and this is certainly more humane than watching them starve and freeze.

As far as the meadowlark and other birds being added to the game list, that is one of the most ridiculous statements I have ever seen.

Thorp Warns Ranchers Beef Prices Won't Last

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

North Platte — Nebraska ranchers were warned Friday that the present high prices for cattle probably won't last beyond the summer.

"We just have too many cattle. We are going to have to kill between 9 million and 10 million cows before the end of the year in order to reduce our cattle supply to get it in line with demand," said Topper Thorp of Denver, general manager of a self-help cattleman's analyst group called Cattle Fax.

"The cattle industry has lost a lot of equity. Some people who are still in business today won't be around a year from now," Thorp said at the final session of the Nebraska Stockgrowers Association.

Thorp stated that 45% of the cattle going to market today have never been in a feedlot.

"Today's high prices are a direct result of a sharp drop in the average weight of cattle going to market. We are marketing a lot of calves and very few fat cattle," he said.

Thorp predicted that the number of cattle going to market would increase sharply this fall as the summer pasture season ends.

The ranchers took the following action via resolutions:

- Supported legislation that would allow the seller of livestock to retain the title to the livestock until the purchase price has been paid in full.
- Supported a concept of large school districts and consolidation of schools on a voluntary basis only.
- Called for a more equitable tax system for local school support with a larger portion of the cost to be paid from state general funds.
- Opposed a local option sales tax and called for its repeal by the Legislature.
- Opposed any change in the present method of computing income taxes by farmers and ranchers.

- Asked that Congress increase the exemption in federal estate laws from the present $60,000 to $200,000.
- Asked that the Fort Robinson complex be retained under its present ownership and that the land be put to its highest and best use immediately.
- Aksed Congress to establish an energy conservation program with priorities so that agriculture can maintain production.
- Opposed the adoption of regulations on all bodies of water by the Army Corps of Engineers with the recommendation that the Corps' jurisdiction be limited to waters that are presently navigable by commercial vessels.
- Supported the proposed changes in beef grading with the exception that yield grading should be made optional.

Meanwhile, the stockgrowers named Richard Lewis of Holbrook senator of the year, and presented the top hand award to Robert York of Arlington.

The Nebraska Cow-Belles selected Mrs. Charles Marcy of Hay Springs president of the group for the coming year. Other officers included Mrs. Howard Wright of Mullen, first vice president; Mrs. Pat McGinley of Oshkosh, second vice president; nd Mrs. Bob Keller of Bassett, secretary-treasurer. Mary McGinley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pat McGinley, was named youth of the year.

Murdock Girl Chosen Charolais Queen

Lexington — Connie Rikli, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dutch Rikli of Murdock, was selected as queen of the Nebraska Junior Charolais Association during the group's annual show at Lexington. Her attendant was Janet Geiger of Cozad. Named champion junior showman was Mark Eggers of Tilden with Brian Foster of Ulysses, reserve champion. LeAnn Thomas of Kearney was champion senior showman with reserve honors going to Tom Sonderup of Fullerton.

Three Towns Get Housing Loans

Twenty units of housing for the elderly will be built in three Nebraska communities, Rep. Charles Thone, R-Neb., announced Friday. The units will be built in David City, Plainview and Verdigr through loans totaling $259,000 from the Farmers Home Administration, Thone said. The loan of $111,000 will finance construction of an eight-apartment complex in David City. Six units each are planned in Verdigr and Plainview through FHA loans of $90,000 and $58,000.

Environmental Hearings Open

Kearney (AP) — The Nebraska Department of Environmental Control opened hearings here to determine what cities will get what priorities in the race for federal funds for local waste water control projects. In all, 207 communities have applied for the funds, and the DEC will have to draw up a list of numbered priorities based on population, present treatment facilities, proposed water pollution control facilities, receiving streams and national priorities, such as wild rivers, if any. Bellevue, which was ranked at the top of the list for the current fiscal year, will remain No. 1 in the upcoming fiscal year.

Lexington Teachers Get Salary Hike

Lexington (UPI) — Public school teachers in the Lexington area school district have agreed to a new contract for the 1975-76 school year that called for a raise of 10% plus a $6 a month increase in fringe benefits. The agreements, reached between teachers and the District 1 school board, would increase the basic wage $500 a year, with the fringe benefits increase from $21 to $27. The present basic pay for teachers is $7,775 a year.

Neligh Girl Selected As 4-H Reporter

Neligh (UPI) — A 16-year-old Neligh girl, Mary Jo Rice, will be installed as one of the 4-H'ers selected from across the country as a 4-H reporter to the nation. In preparation, she will attend a 4-H orientation conference in Chicago July 18-19. She has also received a number of honors in connection with 4-H activities at the state level. Among them, she was the first girl ever selected as attorney general during 4-H week activities in Lincoln.

Gage Workers Salary Hike Advances

Beatrice (UPI) — The Gage County Board of Supervisors has given tentative approval to an overall 9.3% salary-fringe benefit increase for county employes during the 1975-76 fiscal year. The package includes an 8% boost in salaries plus a 1.3% fringe benefit plan that includes life insurance coverage. The board was originally asked to consider a 10% salary increase, but the supervisors questioned whether that much could be financed by county resources.

Alliance Man Dies When Pole Hits Power Line

Leadville, Colo. (AP) — An Alliance, Neb., man was killed when a metal flagpole he was removing at a mountain cabin fell across a high-voltage electrical power line, the Lake County sheriff's department said Friday.

The victim was identified as Tommy Van Beek, 26. He was pronounced dead on arrival at a hospital here Thursday.

A spokesman for the sheriff's department said the man was removing the pole from the ground when the pole apparently became overbalanced and fell onto the wires.

The spokesman said Van Beek and Mark Mann, of Frisco, Colo., were working at the cabin as part of a religious retreat.

Cattle On Feed Down In State

Nebraska feedlots held 970,000 cattle on June 1, down 24% from June 1974, and the lowest June inventory since 1965, the State-Federal Bureau of Agricultural Statistics reported Friday.

This inventory, however, showed a 2% increase from a month earlier, according to the bureau.

Nebraska feeders marketed 245,000 fed cattle during May, down 26% from last year and down 29% from two years ago. May placements of 275,000 were 2% above a year earlier, but 23% below two years ago. Last month's placements showed a 6% increase from the previous month's placements.

ONE LOFTY PROJECT...flag "flies" continuously on Myron Dedic barn.

Farmer Says He Needed A Roof Job Anyway

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Crete — Flag Day is no small thing this year at the Myron Dedic farm.

A 22-by-48-foot American flag was incorporated into the farmer's barn roof during a long year of "between times" shingling. The finished product could well be the biggest personal bicentennial project in the state.

The 44-year-old bachelor did get some help from neighbors in laying out the red, white and blue asphalt. Cutting the 18-inch stars from metal flashing was his job alone on cold winter nights.

Against the green of surrounding pastures, Old Glory now stands out like its mushin predecessors on Civil War battlefields. It is readily seen by

Hwy. 103 motorists about four miles northeast of Crete.

Not given to verbal orations, the bearded Dedic would prefer to let the lofty flag impart its own patriotic message.

"It's really not so much," he shrugged between pipe puffsings "I needed a roof job anyway."

Deaths Hike State Roads Toll To 133

By The Associated Press

The death of a 15-year-old Bellevue boy Friday and the deaths of two men Thursday night have boosted Nebraska's 1975 traffic death toll to 133, compared to 148 at this time last year.

Robert L. Felthaus Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Felthaus, died in an Omaha hospital of head injuries received when the motorcycle on which he was a passenger rolled onto him northeast of Bellevue Thursday. The sheriff's office said he was not wearing a helmet.

Deputies said Felthaus was riding behind the operator, David Brooke, 16, Bellevue, the deputies said the cycle hit a chuckhole. Brooke was not hospitalized.

Robert S. Bedner, 47, Sumner, and William S. McDonald, 46, were killed in a pickup truck-gravel truck collision about 11 miles north of Kearney on Highway 10 Thursday night. The State Patrol said Bedner was driving the pickup and McDonald was a passenger in it. The driver of the gravel truck, Juan E. Hernandez, 21, Kearney, escaped injury.

Ex-Councilman Of Ashland Dies

Ashland — Funeral services for Forrest L. Rakes, 74, civic leader here, will be at 10 a.m. Saturday at the First Christian Church in Ashland. He died Thursday in Lincoln.

A former city councilman, he was a past president of both the Ashland Chamber of Commerce and Board of Education. A retired John Deere dealer, he owned a photography studio.

West Resigns As ABP Chief In Effort To Save Meatpacking Firm

Omaha (UPI) — Frank R. West, who personally built American Beef Packers Inc. into one of the nation's giant meatpackers, resigned Friday as board chairman and president.

West, 53, said his resignation was the only way ABP could get a $30 million new line of credit from its largest secured creditor, General Electric Credit Corp., in an effort to bring the financially stricken corporation back on its feet.

West said he would remain with the company in an advisory capacity and as a member of the board. He said his "overriding concern" was the payment of some $25 million in debts to livestock feeders.

"Above all," West said, "I want to be able to look each of the feeders in the eye with the understanding that I did not intend to hurt him, and that I did my best to insure his repayment."

West said his resignation will become effective upon approval by the bankruptcy court of ABP's plan of payment to creditors, and the resignation is also contingent upon General Electric Credit's commitment to supply the new flow of funds.

"If, at this point, stepping aside is the only way to repay the feeders, then it has to be done,"

West said. "To try to retain my position now at American Beef would only cause delays in getting our creditors paid, plants reopened and employees back to work."

West said General Electric Credit made the creditors committee in ABP's limited bankruptcy proceedings an "offer the committee could not refuse."

"GECC has proposed to furnish new financing contingent upon a change in our management," West said. "This, however, is the same management that built this company from the ground up."

West blamed GECC for thwarting his attempts to gain new financing, and specifically referred to a $25 million credit line proposal he negotiated with four firms last month.

"I've tried everywhere for new financing," West said. "And, in fact, secured verbal commitments last month from four groups for credits totaling $25 million."

"Until our announcement of this commitment, GECC flatly refused to make any funds available," West said. "Then, two days after the announcement, GECC made an offer for $30 million, and three of the four parties mysteriously backed out."

In his letter of resignation, West said one of the conditions was that a written commitment be drawn up acceptable to the creditors committee from GECC where GECC agrees to fund an initial payment to the cattle feeders of at least 55% of their claims and a payment to the other creditors of at least 40% of their claims.

"No claims to recover preferential payments will be made," in behalf of ABP, West said, "without my written approval."

ABP filed limited bankruptcy Jan. 7 in U.S. District Court in Omaha after reporting sales of approximately $900 million in fiscal 1974. In 1963, West started a pork processing operation in Harlan, Iowa, and the venture later enlarged into American Beef.

Since it filed its bankruptcy petition, ABP has sold its wholly owned subsidiary, Roberts Dairy of Omaha and its Minnare, Neb., feedlot operation. The $18 million sale of its Dumas, Tex., plant to Swift Fresh Meats, Inc., is awaiting approval from the U.S. Justice Department.

The only ABP facility to remain open, its Oakland, Iowa, cattle processing plant, produced more than $1 million in profits, West said, since reopening in late February.

"And this was done," West said, "with the plant operating only at minimal capacity."

West said he had "no idea" who would succeed him.

West and three former ABP employees face criminal charges filed in South Dakota stemming from insufficient fund checks written to a South Dakota cattle feeder.

"I haven't done anything wrong," West said. "If I had done something wrong, I wouldn't be here. I would have gotten the hell out of here."

Omaha Theater Company Guilty Of Obscenity Counts

Omaha (AP) — A six-member Municipal Court jury Friday found the American Theater Corp. guilty of seven counts of distributing obscene material.

The corporation owns and operates the Pussycat Theater in downtown Omaha.

The convictions affirm the City of Omaha's claim that seven magazines purchased at the theater are obscene.

A counseling psychologist at Creighton University told the court Thursday that she frequently urges clients with sexual problems to buy sexually explicit magazines and books that are available in the Pussycat and other adult art theaters.

Dr. Charlene Erskine, a defense witness, told the court her clients include both married and single students at the Roman Catholic university as well as persons not associated with the university.

Dr. Erskine said she doesn't refer her clients indiscriminately, but "as a therapist I've made suggestions to young adults that they go and buy these types of materials and look through them."

She said she refers some clients to such magazines as part of "bibliotherapy" or in other cases for "desensitization."

Bibliotherapy is "looking at pictures or reading books... a lot of therapy is just education," she said.

Desensitization is looking at sexually explicit materials in order to lessen anxiety and shock in dealing with sexual topics. She said desensitization is most useful with male clients who have difficulty dealing with her as a woman.

Young GOPs Will Discuss Gun Control

Geneva (AP) — Gun control legislation will be among the topics discussed Sunday when the Nebraska Federation of Young Republicans executive committee meets here.

The committee will consider a resolution commending 3rd District Congresswoman Virginia Smith's stand that gun control is a local issue.

Delegates to the National Young Republicans convention in Indianapolis July 1-6 also will be selected

BOARD MEMBERS... Leo Hoffman, Mrs. Maurice Frank.

Suez Said Boost For U.S. Wheat

Sidney — The recent reopening of the Suez Canal should make hard red winter wheat more competitive in price in the Persian Gulf countries, according to a wheat marketing specialist from Lebanon.

The Nebraska Wheat Advisory Committee heard that report Friday from Richard Benson, director of the Beirut, Lebanon, office of GPW, Inc. GPW is one of the organizations with which the Nebraska Wheat Division contracts for foreign market development.

Benson, currently on vacation in the U.S., visited the advisory committee meeting here Friday. The committee held its bi-monthly meeting at the University of Nebraska High Plains Agricultural Lab near Sidney Thursday and Friday.

Opening of the Suez after eight years will reduce shipping costs of hard red winter wheat from gulf ports, particularly to Iran, which Benson described as "the best market for U.S. wheat in the Middle East." Without the canal, shipments from the gulf had to go around the tip of Africa to reach Iran and other Persian Gulf destinations.

OPPD Sets Ceremonies For Station

Omaha (UPI) — The Omaha Public Power District (OPPD) will hold the official groundbreaking ceremony for its proposed $228 million Nebraska City power station unit No. 1 next Monday.

OPPD officials said the 575,000-kilowatt coal-fired generating station will take four years to build and is scheduled for completion in January 1979.

Among the 250 persons scheduled to attend the ceremony are Lt. Gov. Gerald Heelan, OPPD President Richard Dugdale, Director Robert Corn, District General Manager Ralph Shaw, Nebraska City Mayor Ervin Rogers and Otoe County Board Chairman Donald Larson.

The OPPD board Thursday awarded contracts totaling more than $2 million for work on the Nebraska City facility and authorized OPPD management to prepare to issue later this month electric system revenue bonds valued at $110 million.

Bennington Building Bank

Bennington (AP) — The largest commercial building project in the town's history was begun in Bennington Thursday.

The new facility for the Bank of Bennington, which has been in its present location since 1914, is being built on a two-acre tract in Bennington Heights, a subdivision at the northwest edge of town.

The new building will have about 4,300 square feet, triple the size of the present downtown building.

The new bank is to be finished by Jan. 1. The consultant and builder is Bank Building Corp. of St. Louis which has built about 6,000 small banks.

Executives Pick Hanson

Omaha (AP) — Noel L. Hanson, assistant district manager of the Social Security Administration in Omaha, has been elected president of the Omaha-Lincoln Federal Executive Assn.

He succeeds Garl Moore, Lincoln postmaster.

Other new officers are Betty Stafford of Health Education and Welfare in Omaha, first vice president; D. D. Riblett of the Federal Housing Authority in Lincoln, second vice president; and Glen Goodman, of the Federal Aviation Agency in Omaha, secretary treasurer.

Escapee Berry Given 3 Years

Omaha (AP) — Harold B. Berry, who was captured at a house in Gretna Feb. 14 following his escape from the Federal Youth Corrections center in Morgantown, W.Va., was sentenced Thursday to three years in prison.

U.S. District Court Judge Albert Schatz stipulated that the sentence, for assaulting a federal officer, be served after Berry completes the indeterminate term he was serving in West Virginia and an 18-month sentence he received for the escape.

Berry, 20, was serving a four-to-six year term in the youth center for interstate transportation of stolen property at the time of his Jan. 20 escape.

G.I. Hotel Foreclosure Is Petitioned

Grand Island (AP) — The Lincoln Benefit Life Co. of Lincoln has filed a foreclosure action in District Court against the Yancey Hotel.

Named as defendants in the foreclosure are the Second Island Development Co., the Grand Island Hotel Corp., the Small Business Administration, Northwestern National Bank of St. Paul, Minn., and Philco-Ford Corp. of Philadelphia, Penn.

The petition asks that the defendants be foreclosed of all equity of redemption or other interest in the hotel and that it be sold according to law.

Proceeds of the sale would be used to pay the amount adjudged due Lincoln Benefit Life on its mortgage notes, plus interest and the cost of the suit.

According to the petition, the defendants owe Lincoln Benefit Life a balance of $311,610 from a 1969 mortgage note, plus $20,724 interest and $42,981 from a 1972 mortgage note, plus $3,223 in interest.

The petition asks that Don Dixon be appointed as receiver.

District Judge L. W. Kelly set a July 14 hearing date for appointment of the receiver.

Omaha Will Study Options To U.S. Integration Order

By JOHN M. WILLIS
Associated Press Writer

Omaha (AP) — Stunned, shocked and disappointed, Omaha school officials and attorneys will spend the weekend studying a 39-page federal court decision ordering them to integrate the schools in the district.

Meanwhile, the parents of the more than 60,000 students in the district will anxiously await Monday's school board meeting, because that's when a decision of where to go from here will be made.

The U.S. 8th Circuit Court of Appeals, overturning a lower court decision, Thursday ordered the integration of the Omaha School District.

About 20% of the students in the district are black.

The three-judge panel said it found sufficient evidence to establish that segregation in the district was "intentionally created and maintained" by the school district, its superintendent and the school board itself.

The case was appealed by the U.S. Justice Department after U.S. District Judge Albert G. Schatz of Omaha ruled last autumn that there was no intentional segregation in the school district.

After his first reading of the ruling, school board attorney Gerald Laughlin said the next move will be up to the school board, and the board has four possible options:

— It may ask the three-judge panel that made the ruling to rehear the case.

— It may ask for a review before the full circuit bench.

— It may appeal the case to the U.S. Supreme Court.

— Or, it may implement the orders as given by the circuit court.

Laughlin said he will study the decision over the weekend, and will make recommendations to the board Monday.

Superintendent Owen Knutsen will make a decision on what action to take during its regular meeting Monday.

In a prepared statement, Knutsen Friday expressed the disappointment of the school board in the decision.

"Though judgment on the overall implications of the decision must be withheld until a comprehensive study can be made, it is deemed unfortunate that the answers and remedies to the problems of racial imbalance cannot be left to the judgment of the citizens and elected representatives of this community," Knutsen said.

The appeals court ordered school officials to develop a plan to correct the racial imbalance in both the student body, and in the faculty.

The first phase of the plan must be approved by the U.S. District Court here within 45 days, and implemented next fall. The entire plan must be approved and in operation by the 1976-77 school year.

It is generally felt that cross-busing will be about the only way to comply with the order, and Knutsen declined substantive comment on the public's reaction to such action.

Included in the ruling were the guidelines for the integration, saying no fewer than 5%, nor more than 35% of the student body in any school should be black.

The district operates eight high schools, one middle school, 78 elementary schools and 12 junior highs. Those schools meeting the minimum guidelines as set down in the ruling would not be affected.

The reaction among the parents will probably be "mixed," Knutsen said.

Jack Barnhart, school board vice president, said he intended to introduce a motion to appeal the decision to the U.S. Supreme Court.

"I would not like to give up at this stage," Barnhart said.

Knutsen noted that a voluntary integration plan has been implemented in the past year, and said it has been working "very well."

The plan involves the use of what are termed learning resource centers and magnet schools, and Knutsen said he hoped that the program will be continued.

Zorinsky Says He's Considering Senate

By The Associated Press
Omaha Mayor Edward Zorinsky told about 30 teachers at the Robert A. Taft Institute in Government that he had aspirations for a seat in the U.S. Senate.

In a telephone interview from his Omaha office, Zorinsky said he still is considering a run for the Senate, but will not make definite plans before fall.

Zorinsky said he would first decide whether to run for the Senate in 1976 and then decide whether to remain a Republican or switch to the Democratic Party.

Zorinsky spoke at the institute seminar Thursday along with Hess Dyas, a former Democratic state chairman who is also considering a Senate bid.

Zorinsky said he has been a Republican all his life, but his wife has always been a Democrat. He said the Douglas County Democratic convention asked him to join the Democratic Party.

Zorinsky said he assumed from his conversations with Democratic Gov. J. James Exon that the governor would not run for the Senate in 1976. But he said there was still a possibility Exon might run in the event of unforeseen circumstances.

Weaver Changes Mind; Steinmark Free On Bail

Kearney (AP) — Hall County Judge Donald Weaver reversed himself Friday, allowing Donald T. Steinmark to go free on bail while his conviction on two counts of delivering a controlled substance is appealed.

Earlier, both Weaver and the State Supreme Court had denied Steinmark bond, and he began serving consecutive three-to-nine-year terms in the Penal Complex.

Following a hearing Friday, Weaver, saying he wanted it understood that he did not "expect any foolishness," set the appeal bond at $25,000.

Steinmark posted 10% of the bond amount as required under law, and was freed pending the State Supreme Court's decision on his appeal.

Testifying Friday on Steinmark's behalf was Buffalo County Sheriff Vern Newbold.

Newbold told Weaver that he has known Steinmark for about four years, and that he does not believe Steinmark will pose a threat to the community.

Weaver introduced some evidence of his own Friday, a copy of a poster found on a car being used by a State Patrol investigator in the Steinmark case.

The poster, a collage of pictures and words relating to guns and deaths of law enforcement officers, had the words "You'll get yours" printed at the bottom.

Weaver said he introduced the poster as an example of the atmosphere in which the officers had to work in the Steinmark case.

Chuck McDaniel, coach of the Pabst Blue Ribbon women's softball team, calls Janet Mark "the bumblebee."

And it's easy to see why. The 5-ft., 6-in. sparkplug is always buzzing around.

Whether she's batting, running, catching or cheering, the team's catcher is most always in high spirits, lifting her teammates up as she goes.

No newcomer to the field, Janet has been crouching behind the plate, catching balls that breeze by the batters for nine years now.

Maybe that's why the 20-year-old Nebraska Wesleyan junior feels right at "home" when she steps into the batter's box.

'One Superstition'

"I do have one superstition," Janet confesses, her huge brown eyes dancing. "I only swing the bat once, hard, before getting to the plate. I don't know why I do that. It's just a little thing I always do."

Whatever it is she does, it works. Coach McDaniel brags that Janet is batting a lofty .411 this season.

Another Class A women's team in the City Recreation Dept. program, this one sponsored by First National Bank, felt a little of the Janet Mark spark in a recent showdown.

It was the third inning and Janet's second turn at bat after grounding out her first time up. Staring intently at the pitcher, she leaned backwards and let an inside ball sail pass. Then, with a smooth, even swing her bat connected, driving the low-flying missile over the left fielder's head.

Janet runs, well truthfully, she runs like a girl, slowing down just enough to maneuver the runs and catch a piece of the bases. A beautiful home run.

'Keep Eye On Ball'

"If you can keep your eye on the ball, you can hit it," she said. In fast pitch softball, that's a big "if."

Pabst pitcher Jan "Smoky" Bartels, who also throws for the University of Nebraska women's team, can burn those softballs across the plate faster than a freight train steaming through Paveklock.

By the end of the second inning, the Pabst gals were pulling into a comfortable lead, but they didn't ease up. Coach McDaniel, hurling criticism and praise from the sidelines, made sure of that.

And before every inning there's a spirit campaign of sorts. Catcher, pitcher, base players and shortstop meet for a brief huddle on the mound.

What do they talk about for those few seconds?

"Nothing, really," Janet says, laughing as though someone had asked if they were planning a conspiracy. "We might decide we'd better tighten up a little. Mostly it's just to get everybody ready to go. Then we always say, 'One, two, three. Let's go!'"

'Let's Go'

By the time they called out their last "Let's go," the Pabst team was coasting to a wide, but hard-fought 12 to 6 victory, making them 7-2 for the season.

There were a few scraped shins and thighs by the bottom of the seventh inning, but no hard feelings. Janet ended up at the bottom of one pileup as a First National runner ploughed safely into home.

Bumps and bruises are all part of the game, especially if you play with as much spirit and determination as these gals do.

"I think most people have an old-fashioned idea of women's softball," Janet said. "People think of 26 to 15 scores, but it's not that way usually. We had a couple 5 to 4 games. Our pitchers are getting better and faster, the defense is improving a lot and we're not making as many errors."

It wasn't long ago that a woman could be good in any sport she participated in, simply because not many women were interested, she pointed out. "But today a woman has to have ability as well as desire. Competition is getting better and better all the time."

For one thing, Lincoln girls are starting to learn the fundamentals of the game much younger. Last year Janet coached a City Recreation Dept. "Ponytail" team for 4th, 5th and 6th graders.

By this summer — the second year for the program — the number of Ponytail teams more than quadrupled, from 10 or 12 to 50 or 60, she said. Although she wanted to coach again this summer, Janet's taking 10 hours in summer school and umpiring part-time.

Most Related to Sports

A list of her other activities would go on and on. Most of them are related to sports. What else?

She not only plays softball for the City Rec team, but also catches for the Nebraska Wesleyan softball team. She's a starter on NWU's basketball team, plays volleyball for NWU, gives her mother some competition on the golf course and enjoys a game or two of tennis now and then.

Nevertheless, as far as Janet's concerned, diamonds are a girl's best friend. Softball diamonds that is. She's not quite ready for the sparkling kind.

Loss Of Son To Cancer Brought New Dimension To Marriage

DEAR READERS: Some months ago, I published a letter signed "NOT GUILTY." It was written by a father who was driving home from a father-son fishing trip in a blinding rainstorm when the car skidded into a ditch. The boy was killed and the father walked away with only a small cut on his nose.

The father wrote, "I wasn't going fast, and I wasn't careless. It was just a freak accident. He was only 16 and our only child. My wife blames me for our son's death. We once had a good marriage, but now we are practically strangers. Can you help me?"

I urged the man to get his wife into therapy, and although I never heard from him again, his letter prompted this one from another father, which I think is appropriate for publication on Father's Day.

DEAR ABBY: I read that touching letter from a father,

"NOT GUILTY," who had lost his only son in a car accident while the two of them were returning from a fishing trip. His wife made it clear that she blamed him for the boy's death. Consequently, each is bearing the loss alone.

Five years ago, our 23-year-old son, less than a year out of Harvard, came home to die of cancer. He lived exactly one month from the day he came home. During that last month of his life, I spent practically all my time with him. We parted confident of each other's love.

Abby, when he was growing up, I didn't spend much time with him. (I was too busy.) How I wish I had taken him on a fishing trip now and then, as this Dad had done. It seems to me that this Dad must have been a good father before the Almighty intervened for reasons of His own. There are worse ways for a father and son to part, in fact it is difficult to think of a better way than in an atmosphere of love and sharing.

A generation or two ago, when child mortality was higher, married couples seemed much more aware of a fundamental fact: Although we love our children dearly, we lose some through death, some leave us, some displease us and occasionally one will crown our old age.

But in the end, all parents have is each other. Our children are just "loaners." We start out a couple, and we'll most likely end as a couple, finding comfort and fulfillment together in a union ordained by God.

My wife and I felt that ours was a good marriage, but the loss of our son drew us even closer together.

I hope NOT GUILTY's wife will realize that the intimacy of shared tears can add a previous new dimension to their marriage.

It's Clear Slam In Danger Because East Overcalled

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	2 ♥	3 ♣	Pass
4 ♣	Pass	4 ♦	Pass
4 ♥	Pass	6 ♣

Opening lead — nine of hearts.

Assume you're in six clubs and West leads a heart, which you win with the king. It is clear that the slam is in danger because East overcalled North's spade bid with two hearts and probably has six of them.

This, in turn, means that West led a singleton and might be able to ruff a heart if you incautiously played a trump at trick two to force out the ace.

So you start worrying about how to overcome this danger, and, after you worry a while — as all careful declarers do — you come up with the right decision.

You cash the ace of spades, play a diamond to the king, and start running dummy's spades, planning to discard the 7-4 of hearts on the K-Q of spades before leading trumps.

As it happens, your plan doesn't work out the way you expected it to, but it is successful nevertheless. When you play the third round of spades, East is faced with a choice of ruffing the queen of spades with his singleton ace of trumps or discarding on the trick instead. His play makes no difference because you discard your last heart in either case, and the only trick you lose is to the ace of trumps.

Note that your plan would likewise have succeeded if East had held the A-x of trumps. If he ruffed the third round of spades low, you would overruff, play a trump, and in that way make the slam.

Note also what would happen if, at trick two, you had led a trump right away. East would take the ace, return a heart, and down the chute would go the slam because you had tackled trumps prematurely.

Firing Of PSC Engineer Sasek Viewed As Warning To Staffers

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

The firing of an engineer who has long been an irritant to the Nebraska telephone industry is being viewed as a warning to other staff members of the Nebraska Public Service Commission.

By a 3-1 vote, the commission has fired engineering chief Gerald Sasek, a 26-year-old native of Sargent who has been credited with helping to bring the consumer viewpoint to a body which has traditionally been industry-oriented.

"They've made him an example," one commission staff member who asked not to be identified said.

"Anybody who thinks like him (in effect) has been told to either fall in line with industry or get out."

Another commission staff member said, "It's sad. We've (the commission) come so far in the last year. Sasek was one of the staff members who made it possible."

The staff member speculated that there may be other staff members who might be fired but declined to elaborate.

Commission chairman Eric Rasmussen, the lone commissioner to vote for Sasek, said the reasons given for firing Sasek, namely "incompetence" and "unprofessional conduct," are merely a ploy.

The real reason Sasek, who worked at the commission seven years, was fired, Rasmussen said, was because "the commission was starting to move," and Sasek had "trampled on too many toes" in the telephone industry.

"I'm afraid it appears if an employee sits around and doesn't rock the boat then he's secure in his job."

Rasmussen noted that Sasek had done the engineering work on the Blair Telephones System at Kennard which led the commission to conclude that service to 250 subscribers there was inadequate.

As a result, the commission majority in 1974 cut Blair's rates for Kennard by 60%. The Nebraska Supreme Court recently upheld that decision and said phone service must be commensurate with the rates charged.

Commissioner Duane Gay of Columbus opposed cutting those rates, and it was Gay who Thursday moved to fire Sasek. He was joined by Commissioner Jack Romans of Ord and James Munnely of Omaha.

Gay, who reportedly has stated on a number of occasions he wanted to fire Sasek for his "harrassment" of the telephone companies, denied that Sasek's involvement with the Kennard case and efforts to establish service reports for phone companies had anything to do with the decision to fire him.

"Nothing could be further from the truth," Gay said.

Asked for specific instances of incompetence or unprofessional conduct, Gay declined to elaborate.

"It's one of those things that's a personal judgment. I can't say anything about it; it's a personnel matter," he said.

Rasmussen noted that Gay, Romans and Munnely had attended a telephone association meeting in Des Moines earlier in the week.

However, Gay said that had nothing to do with Sasek.

"My personal opinion is that Eric is just saying these things purely for public consumption. It's political thing with him," Gay said.

Rasmussen said the loss of Sasek will make it more difficult for him to properly evaluate rate applications. Lincoln Telephone & Telegraph Co. and Northwestern Bell both have multimillion dollar rate applications pending with the commission.

Gay said people are already being considered to replace Sasek.

Sasek, whose dismissal was immediate with two weeks severance pay, declined to comment until he has discussed the matter with his attorney.

BELGRADE (AP) — Secretary of the Air Force John McLucas arrived with a group of aides for a visit to Yugoslavia and a look at its armed forces.

Col. Gen. Enver Cernovic, commander of the Yugoslav air force and antiaircraft defense, welcomed the American guest at the airport.

Trio Reappointed

Des Moines (UPI) — Gov. Robert D. Ray announced the reappointments of three members of the State Board of Regents to six-year terms beginning July 1.

They are Mary Louise Petersen, 46, Harlan, chairman of the board; Ray Bailey, 61, Milford; and Donald Shaw, 53, Davenport.

Bailey and Shaw are Democrats and Mrs. Petersen is a Republican.

New Court Wanted

Washington (UPI) — Chief Justice Warren E. Burger said that unless Congress acts to reduce the Supreme Court's growing mandatory work load, a new "mini-Supreme Court" must be created.

Woman Seriously Hurt In Motorboat Explosion

An explosion on a boat at Capitol Beach Lake Friday evening injured six people, one seriously, and destroyed an in-board motorboat, police said.

The boat, carrying six passengers, was pulling away from a private dock on the lake's southwest end when the explosion occurred, fire officials said.

Neighbors said they heard a noise like a sonic boom, looked out and saw the boat in flames.

Shirley Kuhle, 39, of 610 Brookside, was listed in serious condition at St. Elizabeth Health Center's Burn Center with third degree burns on her legs.

Two others were treated and released at St. Elizabeth Health Center: Vern C. Neumann, 44, of 22 W. Lakeshore Drive, for first degree burns on his legs and feet and a cut to the left leg; and Jeannette M. Zimmerman, 33, of 22 W. Lakeshore Drive, for first and second degree burns on her feet, legs and hands.

Virginia L. Wheelock, of 920 Manchester was treated and released at Lincoln General Hospital for first- and second-degree burns.

The boat's owner, John Wheelock, of 920 Manchester and, Don Kuhle, of 610 Brookside, suffered cuts, but both refused treatment.

Firemen said the passengers were being given first aid on shore when they arrived, and the burning boat had drifted about 200 feet onto the lake. Two firemen dived into shoulder-deep water to extinguish the flames and retrieve the boat.

The fire was put out before a 50-gallon gasoline tank, which one neighbor said had just been filled, could explode, fire officials said.

They were unable to determine the cause of the explosion.

State's February Sales Volume Greater Than National Average

Nebraska had a greater sales volume in February than the national average, but lacked the dollar volume the nation had, according to the Bureau of Business Research.

Statistics show that Nebraska's business physical volume index, compared to February 1974, was off 2.5%, compared to the nation's 4.4% decrease.

But a comparison of the dollar volume index over the same period shows the nation up 6%, and Nebraska up 3.2%, according to Vernon Renshaw, bureau statistician.

Although the nation's dollar index figure is raised by 10% inflation, Nebraska still lacks the dollar volume behind its sales, Renshaw said.

At the end of February, the bureau's chart of general business activity, corrected for price changes, stood just below the December 1974, level.

Holdrege experienced the highest sales increase in Nebraska, totaling about $2.3 million in sales for a 3.3% increase over February 1974.

Lincoln and McCook joined Holdrege as cities with increased banking activity. McCook's banking increased 14.1% over 1974, Holdrege's 11.1%, and Lincoln's 8.3%.

The bureau's agricultural sector index slipped less severely for Nebraska than the nation, because the Nebraska farm price index was at a lower level than the national index at the outset.

In both cases, the prices received by farmers dropped about 5% during February.

Schimek Heads Demo Telethon

Democratic State Chairman Dick White has named Diana Schimek of Lincoln as state coordinator of the 1975 Democratic National Telethon.

The telethon will be broadcast on ABC television stations July 26 and 27.

Phone banks will accept contributions in Omaha, Lincoln, Grand Island, Kearney, Hastings, Norfolk, Beatrice, North Platte and McCook.

Crown Center Has A Minister

Kansas City, Mo. (UPI) — In Crown Center, an urban redevelopment project, there's a 730-room hotel, a retail complex with 90 shops, five office buildings, a bank — and a minister.

The minister is the Rev. Chris Morgan of the United Church of Christianity, who runs free counseling service in this commercial setting.

200 years ago
"the most dangerous man
in America" was a printer.

B. Franklin, printer, of Philadelphia. Three thousand miles across a mighty ocean they labeled him "dangerous." He printed words from the pens of men like Tom Paine and even some of his own . . . words that unmasked tyranny . . . words that stirred men's souls . . . words that are as fresh and powerful today as the morning he set them in hand type.

Two hundred years ago the printed word helped to convert the "idea of freedom" into a new nation. Print transforms ideas into words that can be read, re-read, remembered and acted on. It always has. It always will.

"WHY DO THE HEATHEN RAGE?"
Psalm 2:1 and Acts 4:25

The following quotation is from the monument of Thos. E. Watson on the Capitol grounds in Atlanta: "DEMOCRATIC INSTITUTIONS EXIST BY REASON OF THEIR VIRTUE. IF EVER THEY PERISH IT WILL BE WHEN YOU HAVE FORGOTTEN THE PAST, BECOME INDIFFERENT TO THE PRESENT, AND UTTERLY RECKLESS AS TO THE FUTURE." If we mistake not, efforts were made by some to pull down Mr. Watson off the "high place" of esteem his fellow-citizens place him. If they succeeded with some, yet the truth of his statement and prophecies will live on and be fulfilled by loss and curse upon us and our institutions, if forgotten. "AND JUDGEMENT IS TURNED AWAY BACKWARD. AND JUSTICE STANDETH AFAR OFF: FOR TRUTH IS FALLEN IN THE STREET, AND EQUITY CANNOT ENTER," YET THE LORD SAW IT, AND WAS DISPLEASED. Isaiah 59:14, 15. Even if Truth falls in the street and Equity cannot enter, yet in time God raises it up to fulfill His Judgments. Would it not be wise for our State Fathers to read and meditate upon this prophecy of Mr. Watson in view of their responsibility for "such a time as this," and their sworn duty?" "AN ALMIGHTY JUSTICE DOES VERILY RULE THIS WORLD. IT IS GOOD TO FIGHT ON GOD'S SIDE, AND BAD TO FIGHT ON THE DEVIL'S SIDE!" "MEN AND WOMEN WHO HAVE THE TRUE FEAR OF THE LORD IN THEIR HEARTS, AND ARE RIGHTEOUS IN HIS SIGHT, DO MORE TO PROTECT A PEOPLE, AND PROCURE PEACE AND BLESSING TO A LAND, THAN ALL THEIR GREAT STATESMEN, SOLDIERS, AND ARMAMENTS!" "FOR NOTHING SHOULD THE PEOPLE OF GOD MORE DEVOUTLY PRAY THAN THAT THEIR GREAT MEN MIGHT BE GOOD AND GOD-FEARING MEN."

"IF EVER THEY PERISH IT WILL BE WHEN YOU HAVE FORGOTTEN THE PAST!" Consider the following statement "out of the past" concerning the conditions about the time of the fall of the Western portion of the Roman Empire: "AND AS FOR THE WEST, IT WAS LEFT TO THE MERCY OF THE BARBARIANS! FOR TWELVE GENERATIONS, MURDER, WAR, ARSON, PLUNDERING WERE THE ORDER OF THE DAY. ONE THING, ONE THING ALONE, SAVED EUROPE FROM COMPLETE DESTRUCTION, FROM A RETURN TO THE DAYS OF THE CAVE MAN AND THE HYENA! THIS WAS THE CHURCH. THE FLOCK OF HUMBLE MEN AND WOMEN WHO FOR MANY CENTURIES HAD CONFESSED THEMSELVES FOLLOWERS OF JESUS, THE CARPENTER OF NAZARETH, WHO HAD BEEN KILLED THAT THE MIGHTY ROMAN EMPIRE MIGHT BE SAVED THE TROUBLE OF A STREET RIOT IN A LITTLE CITY SOMEWHERE ALONG THE SYRIAN FRONTIER!" (There were other things concerning the killing of the Carpenter of Nazareth, and the aftermath, of which the eminent Historian evidently knew nothing, said to say: JESUS WAS THE CARPENTER OF HEAVEN WHO BUILT THE UNIVERSE—"ALL THINGS WERE MADE BY HIM, AND FOR HIM." Colossians 1:16 — ALSO, THIS CARPENTER WROUGHT OUT GOD'S SO GREAT SALVATION" IN ORDER THAT "THE SOUL THAT SINNETH MIGHT NOT PERISH." IF THERE IS "REPENTANCE TOWARDS GOD, AND FAITH TOWARDS THE LORD JESUS CHRIST."

"ONE THING, ONE THING ALONE, SAVED EUROPE FROM COMPLETE DESTRUCTION, FROM A RETURN TO THE DAYS OF THE CAVE MAN AND THE HYENA! THIS WAS THE CHURCH — !" Probably there are between 6 and 700 of these "one things" in the city of Atlanta alone, whose duty and privilege is to teach men and women and children to honor God and obey His Commandments: Honor father and mother, do not murder, commit no adultery, steal not, be not, neither desire or covet anything that belongs to another: Teach men and women and children that disobedience and violations of these Commandments brings down from Heaven the wrath of God upon the children of disobedience. With all these hundreds of Churches in our City, yet we find an alarming amount of crime, murder, rape, arson, all sorts of anarchy, riot and plundering of the goods, rights and liberties of others; some of which is done in the name of "human rights" instead of "inhuman rights" and supported, we think, by "blind leaders of the blind!" Wonder if maybe we have been ordaining, baptizing, and taking into our Churches some unconverted "cavemen and hyenas!" (Think it was the late Billy Sunday that told this story: His daughter introduced him to a young man she was dating and asked his opinion of him. After looking him over, he said: "His eyes are too close together, that is a sign of the "hyena" in him: better pass him up, sis!")

Sometimes we never know if a person belongs to a Church until the funeral notice appears. It might be profitable if his Church relations, if any, were noted when he gets in jail for crime and lawlessness! A check could be made to see if his Church taught him God's Commandments regarding honor due to God, his mother and father, and to his fellowman forbidding murder, adultery, stealing, lying, coveting and desiring anything God in His Providence has given to another. Surely, his Church being tax exempt, should contribute this help to the police, judges, and civil authorities charged with the duty to God Almighty. This would be very helpful to the individual Churches in giving them the opportunity to check up on the quality of the product they send out into the world. Dwight Moody said: "If Christianity don't straighten out your character it is not "worth the snap of your finger!"

From observation, and things we read and hear, it appears there is quite a gap developing between the clergy and the laity, the pulpit and the pew. If our understanding of the cause is correct, it is a good and healthy sign. Generally speaking many of the clergy, and especially the top-brass, have departed from "The Faith" that The Bible is the infallible and inerrant Word of God from one end to the other; while most of the laymen and those in the pew still hold to the teaching of The Lord Jesus Christ, and confirmed to us down through the ages by The Church Fathers: "THAT GOD'S WORD IS TRUE FROM THE BEGINNING: AND EVERY ONE OF HIS RIGHTEOUS JUDGMENTS ENDURETH FOREVER." Psalm 119:160: "THE SCRIPTURES CANNOT BE BROKEN" — John 10:35: and "MAN SHALL NOT LIVE BY BREAD ALONE, BUT BY 'EVERY WORD' THAT PROCEEDETH OUT OF THE MOUTH OF GOD." — Matthew and Luke 4:4.

May we suggest that in judging and being critical of The Church, you begin with yourself. Examine your own relations to the Church in the light of the vows taken, neglected, failed to take, or perform. Does your purpose and conduct in relations to God and His Commandments tend to produce such a climate as favors the "caveman and hyena," or, that favors "righteousness that exalts a nation?"

READ YOUR BIBLE, BELIEVE YOUR BIBLE, AND SEEK THE WILL OF GOD FOR YOUR OWN LIFE BY OBEDIENCE TO THE BIBLE.

FROM LAW COMES FREEDOM

When God gave Moses the Ten Commandments they were largely NEGATIVE rules. "Thou shalt NOT..." We should appreciate God's feeling for us!

For if you were privileged to rewrite the Commandments would you choose to make them POSITIVE? "You MUST..." you've GOT TO..." Totalitarian is just the polite political name for that kind of programmed puppetry. God would have nothing of it!

Truly, every "thou shalt not" inspires earnest believers to find their own rightful expressions of conviction and commitment. Our secular Law with its protections of the rights of others does not restrict our moral freedom. It simply guides it into more constructive channels, more fruitful aims.

Never does the Law say "Thou shalt go to Church every Sunday." It does say "Remember the Sabbath Day to keep it holy", REMEMBERING OUR SPIRITUAL NEEDS IS THE ESSENCE OF FREEDOM!

Rock Island May Want To Merge With MoPac

(c) Chicago Sun-Times
Chicago — The Rock Island Lines has informed the Interstate Commerce Commission that it may want to merge with the Missouri Pacific Railroad, a Rock Island official said.

"This isn't to say that we are definitely going to seek a merger," emphasized Martin Cassell, vice president for law, "but we do want to keep open all our options."

The insolvent Rock Island has asked the commission to defer the pending merger of the Missouri Pacific with the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad and the Texas and Pacific Railway, Cassell said.

Such a merger would make the Missouri Pacific a "Chicago railroad," give it a competitive edge with shippers and "badly hurt" the Rock Island, he said. The Rock Island, which filed for reorganization in March in federal court under the Bankruptcy Act, wants the pending merger put off until it can determine how much freight traffic would be lost to the merged Missouri Pacific system. One option for the Rock Island would be to seek compensation for lost freight revenue, Cassell said. Another option might be to include the Rock Island in the Missouri Pacific merger. "What we're doing is trying to protect the financial interests of the Rock Island," he said.

The Missouri Pacific, based in St. Louis, already controls the Chicago & Eastern Illinois and the Texas and Pacific. Meanwhile, the Rock Island announced that Chicagoan Anthony Hasell, founder and former executive director of the National Association of Railroad Passengers, has been named director of passenger services for the railroad. The Rock Island is one of three U.S. railroads that decided not to turn over its passenger-train operations to Amtrak in 1971. Haswell, 44, a lawyer for the former Illinois Central has long been a leading consumer advocate of better passenger-train service.

Higher Car Sales Hailed

By The Associated Press
President Ford asked on Friday for legislation to encourage oil conservation and economic growth of electric utilities while an upswing in car sales during early June was hailed as evidence of a turnaround in the depressed auto industry.

The President also signed a $15 billion supplemental money bill freeing delayed GI education checks and $50 bonus checks for 34 million persons on the Social Security and railroad retirement rolls.

A Treasury Department official said, meanwhile, that a decision may be made soon on reviving the $2 bill a move key officials are encouraging.

The Commerce Department reported the backlog of goods held by the nation's businesses declined by a record $1.9 billion in April. It was the second straight month in which inventory liquidation set a new high and administration economists viewed it as further evidence of economic recovery since business must reduce inventories before they gear up production and put more people back to work.

The legislation Ford supported was a package developed by his Labor-Management Committee that would permit the utilities liberalized tax writeoffs for construction spending and tax-deferred treatment of their dividends provided stockholders reinvest them.

The committee, in its report to Ford said utilities have been postponing or canceling vital construction projects and argued this may be expected to result in future energy shortages and serious restrictions to economic expansion.

Besides encouraging the building of more power plants, the package would have the objective of encouraging the conversion of oil and gas-fired generating plants to use of coal as a power source.

Secretary of Labor John Dunlop estimated the recommended tax breaks would save utilities between $500 million and $1 billion in the fiscal year that starts July 1, if Congress approves them.

The bill signed by Ford will free extra funds for the food stamp program in addition to freeing checks for about 219,000 veterans and the $50 payment for Social Security and railroad retirement recipients provided in the tax-cut law enacted earlier this year.

Veterans Administrator Richard L. Roubush said Treasury officials have assured the VA they would do everything possible to process $62.8 million in veterans checks for June and place them in the mail as soon as possible.

The checks had been delayed for up to two weeks by a Senate-House fight over how much to spend for rehabilitating railway roadbeds and other facilities.

In Detroit sales of the four major American cars in early June were reported up a surprising 9.4 per cent over early May to the highest levels for the first 10 days of any month since last October.

And although June 1-10 sales trailed year-ago levels by 6.4 per cent and were the lowest for the period in 14 years, analysts said the gains pointed to further strengthening of the new car market. One analyst noted early June sales normally trail early May by 5 per cent.

Early June sales by Chrysler Corp. and American Motors Corp. were up 6 per cent over last year. General Motors Corp. was off three-tenths of a per cent and Ford Motor Co. was down 25 per cent. Ford blamed its steep decline on the close of a sales contest.

For the year to date, car sales were off 18 per cent from last year when deliveries were depressed by fuel shortages. GM was off 11 per cent for the year, Ford and AMC were each down 22 per cent and Chrysler was off 30 per cent.

A decision on reviving the $2 bill probably will be made by midsummer, said Stephen S. Gardner, deputy secretary of the Treasury.

Both Gardner and Treasury Secretary William E. Simon say they want to see the $2 bill again, and believe it would gain much wider public acceptance than it did before it was withdrawn from circulation in 1966.

Some officials argue the bill would have more appeal now that the $1 bill is worth less and its production could save as much as $4 million a year. Key congressional leaders also support the revival.

The only group not supporting the $2 bill seems to be the public. A study conducted by students at the Graduate School of Business Administration at Harvard University said that a majority of Americans contacted in the survey appeared to oppose the idea.

Squibb & Sons Recalling 50,000 Saccharin Bottles

WASHINGTON (AP) — E. R. Squibb & Sons is recalling about 50,000 bottles of saccharin tablets that have been exploding on pharmacy and retail grocery shelves the Food and Drug Administration said Friday.

The bottles each containing 500 tablets exploded because a new design of cap failed to vent carbon dioxide released by the sugar substitute the FDA said. No injuries have been reported.

The recall involves lot numbers 4J262, 4M295 and 5B380F produced between October of 1974 and March of 1975. The FDA said Squibb had received 19 complaints of exploding bottles beginning last April and initiated its recall May 2.

A spokesman at Squibb's corporate offices in Princeton, N.J. said Friday the firm also made a public announcement of the recall action on that date.

The FDA announced also the recall of about 11,500 bags of white pilaf mix by Near East Food Products Inc., Worcester, Mass., because of what was described as contamination with rodent droppings and urine. The bags were in eight-ounce and two-pound sizes and were distributed nationwide.

Government Mails Last Rebate Checks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The last of the government's tax rebate checks, designed to help spend the nation out of its recession, were in the mail to taxpayers Friday, a Treasury Department spokesman said. The Treasury said it set the total at 63,221,161 rebate checks worth $7,896,737,164.

The spokesman said the only rebates still to be mailed would be those where there is some delay pute over the amount of tax due or doubt as to who is to receive the rebate.

Taxpayers who have not received their rebates, and who do not know the reason why, should call offices of the Internal Revenue Service — using the toll free number listed in their telephone books — to inquire as to what is responsible for the delay.

British Inflation Rate 25%

London (AP) — Britain announced Friday its annual rate of inflation had risen to a record 25% in May, the highest of any industrialized nation. The monthly retail price index, the inflation barometer issued by the Department of Employment, showed prices had climbed a record 4.2% in May to rise an even 25% over the last 12 months.

The comparable U.S. inflation indicator, the consumer price index, rose 10.2% in the 12 months ending in April, the latest month for which U.S. figures are available.

Britain's inflation rate was also substantially higher than any of her other major trading partners. "Inflation is by far the most serious and urgent problem the government and people have to face," Chancellor of the Exchequer Denis Healey told the House of Commons on Thursday. Healey promised severe measures over the next few weeks "with a view to halving the rate of inflation within the next 12 months."

His critics have argued that any effective anti-inflation measures would have to include a statutory curb on wages. But the Labor government of Prime Minister Harold Wilson is well aware that such a measure would infuriate the nation's trade unions.

Britain's average industrial wage is $92 per week.

Stocks Stage Mild Rally; Volume Light

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market staged a mild, light-volume technical rally Friday in some afternoon bargain hunting after a broad decline over the past eight trading days.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, virtually unchanged two hours before the close, finished with a 5.16 advance at 824.47.

Gainers outpaced losers 823 to 550 among the 1,801 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index added .44 to 90.52, and the NYSE's composite index was up 24 at 48.19.

Big Board volume edged up to 16.28 million shares from Thursday's two-month low of 15.97 million.

Brokers said the upswing might have been encouraged by the Commerce Department report at the opening that businesses were able to work down their built-up inventories at another record rate in April, while sales improved.

But they said it appeared the primary forces behind the market's advance were technical.

One analyst pointed out that the Dow had dropped 27 points over the past eight trading days to just below the 820 level. The market had rallied from that point twice before over the last month and technical analysts generally define it as the low end of the trading range in which the market has been moving since early May.

Prices had shown some slight declines during the morning, with analysts blaming concern that a pickup in economic activity might through stepped-up loan demand push interest rates back up toward the double-digit levels of last year and create a capital raising pinch.

But the Dow showed a loss of only about 3 at its early low point and had begun recovery by early afternoon.

Coal issues encountered selling on reports that demand for marginal quality metallurgical coal was beginning to weaken because of the slump in the steel business.

Eastern Gas & Fuel dropped 1 1/2 to 41%, Gulf Resources & Chemical 1 to 21% and Pittston 2 1/2 to 69% despite a Pittston spokesman's assertion that it was unaffected because its coal was higher grade.

Occidental Petroleum, parent company of Island Creek Coal, gave up 3/4 to 18%. The company reported lower earnings for the first five months of the year.

Steels were narrowly mixed. Consat gained 3 1/2 to 38% on word that it and IBM would go ahead with plans for a joint communications satellite venture, taking on unspecified partners in accordance with the Federal Communications Commission.

Echlin Manufacturing fell 2 to 21 1/2. The stock dropped 1 1/2 Thursday when the company said its earnings for the fiscal nine months ended May 31 were down about 13 per cent.

Texasco the Big Board volume leader, picked up 3/4 to 26. A 100,000-share block of the issue changed hands at 25 1/2.

On the American Stock Exchange the market value index gained 42 to 89.43.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 5 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 4, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Lincoln Meet Attracts Iowa Standout

By DAVE SITTLER

One of the rising women track stars in the nation will compete Saturday in Lincoln at the South Lincoln Track Club Invitational.

Debbie Esser, whose name is synonymous with girls prep track in Iowa, has entered the first annual meet scheduled to start at 8 a.m. at Nebraska's Ed Weir Stadium.

"My coach hasn't made up his mind yet what he wants me to run in Lincoln," Esser said Thursday in a phone conversation from her Woodbine, Ia., home. "It looks like I'll probably run the 220, 440 and maybe a relay."

During her high school career at Woodbine, Esser won 10 individual titles as well as running on three state champion relay teams.

This spring, with Esser running the anchor leg, the Woodbine girls mile relay team set a national record while running in the state meet with a time of 3:53.1.

A week later, running in a federation meet in Wichita, Kan., Miss Esser ran the fastest time in the nation this year in the women's 400-meter hurdles when she was clocked in :00.2.

Since her graduation from Woodbine, the 17-year-old Esser has joined the Nebraska Track Club, coached by Father Patrick O'Byrne of Hastings.

"I joined the Nebraska team last year when they ran in California (Bakersfield) because there wasn't any teams in Iowa," Esser explained. "I enjoyed running for the Nebraska club, made some good friends and decided to join the team again this year."

Several of Esser's Nebraska

Track Club teammates have also entered the Lincoln meet which is open to girls and boys from bantam (9-and-under) through senior (17-years-old) divisions.

Hastings St. Cecilia's Nancy Kindig, Aurora's Sandra Obermeier, Julie Faris of Tecumseh and Karol McKenzie of Elwood will be on hand for Saturday's event.

Another top female athlete competing will be Lincoln High's Pam Koontz. Koontz, the 1975 Sunday Journal and Star Girls Athlete of the Year, is entered in the shot.

ABA's San Diego Bought

NEW YORK (AP) — The San Diego franchise of the American Basketball Association was sold to Frank Goldberg, a San Diego furniture dealer who had been part owner of the Denver team, Commissioner Dave DeBusschere announced Friday.

DeBusschere also said that disposition of the financially troubled Memphis franchise had not yet been finalized, but probably would be within 10 days to two weeks.

Friday's action means that the league will operate with at least nine clubs and possibly 10 for the 1975-76 season.

Goldberg's purchase of the San Diego club was conditional upon his closing a deal in Denver, where he and Fischer had headed a group which held controlling interest in the Nuggets since 1972.

Goldberg said that Beryl Shipley, the coach during the 1974-75 season, would not be retained for next season. He also said that General Manager Alex Groza would be in charge of the team's drafting of college players Monday.

Furthermore, Goldberg said that the team's nickname, the Conquistadors, also would be dropped and other changes would be made.

While purchasing the San Diego club, Goldberg said that a 28-man Colorado group had presented him with a letter of intent to buy the Denver team.

DeBusschere said that Coach Joe Mullaney would be in charge of Memphis' draft picks Monday.

DeBusschere also said that no television deal had yet been completed for next season, but that the league was negotiating with some independent networks to show 13 regular-season games, the All-Star game and eight-10 playoff games during 1975-76.

BASKETBALL

The New Orleans Jazz of the NBA received notice from Russia that Aleksander Belov will not accept the 10th round draft notice.

The new owners of the Utah Stars, Snellen M. and Lyle Johnson, brothers from Utah, pleaded guilty last year to selling unregistered securities. The Utah Attorney General's office said the Johnsons have provided material to show they are making good on the sale.

Thomas Wheeler, 29, assistant basketball and baseball coach at the University of Northern Colorado the past five years, was named head baseball coach at Colorado State University. Wheeler, who replaced Irv Ferguson, played for Kansas State. While at UNC, the Bears posted a 124-51 record and placed fifth in the College World Series in 1974.

HOCKEY

Harry Howell, the player-coach who led the San Diego Mariners to the WHA playoffs last season, was fired. Ron Ingram will replace Howell.

A $532,000 debt to the IRS pushed the Pittsburgh Penguins into receivership, but team officials said the NHL franchise would stay in the city.

BASEBALL

Buzz Capra, bothered by a sore right shoulder, was placed on the 21-day disabled list by the Atlanta Braves.

John Allyn, owner and president of the Chicago White Sox, said that he would entertain offers to sell the American League Club.

OTHER SPORTS

Quarterback Steve Bartkowski, the All-American from the University of California, came to terms with the Atlanta Falcons for a reported $600,000 over four years.

Von Peterson, a 17-year-old cyclist from La Crescenta, Calif., was fatally injured during the Baja International off-road race.

Americans Arthur Ashe, seeded No. 5, and fourth-seeded Roscoe Tanner gained the singles final of the $25,000 Kent Lawn Tennis championships with wins over Andrew Pattison of Rhodesia, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3, and Tanner stopping Byron Bertrand of South Africa, 6-1, 8-9, 6-2.

Heavyweight fighter Ron Lyle pleaded innocent to charges he fired two shots at his wife during a fight last March.

Omaha Prep Cage Game Teams Super State Trio

Ralston — Super Staters John C. Johnson, Clayton Bullard and Dave Wesely will be teammates here Saturday night in the Metro Cage Classic All-Star Game.

The three, all major college basketball scholarship recipients, bolster the National team which will meet a 15-man American team in the Class A game at 8:30 p.m.

A Blue-White game, matching Omaha-area Class B, C and D basketball all-stars, opens the program at the Ralston High School gym at 6:30 p.m.

Johnson and Bullard were starters on back-to-back state championship Central teams. Johnson, a 3-year regular and twice a Sunday Journal and Star Super Stater, will attend Creighton this fall.

Teammate Bullard, a 6-3 guard, accepted a Big Eight basketball scholarship at Colorado. Three-year arch-rival Wesely, a 6-7 pivot-forward from Creighton Prep, joins Johnson as a future Bluejay at Creighton.

Omaha Burke Super Stater Rob Hayner, considered the state's top offensive prep player last season, leads the American team. Ralston's Gary Johnson coaches the Americans with Omaha Bryan's Harry Forehand his assistant.

Omaha Central's Jim Martin will direct the National team with Papillion's Dick Murma his assistant.

Valley's Jim Seawards coaches the Blue squad in the Class B game. Former Boys Town coach Jocko Ilesin, recently named head coach at Council Bluffs (Ia.) Abraham Lincoln, is Seawards' assistant.

Former Plattsmouth coach Rich McGill, recently named new head coach at Norfolk, will direct the White squad. Omaha Cathedral's Norm Ridder is McGill's assistant.

Evert Rips Morozova

PARIS (UPI) — America's Chris Evert demolished Olga Morozova of the Soviet Union, 6-4, 6-0. Friday to move into the women's singles final and defend her title in the $218,000 French Open tennis tournament.

Miss Evert, 20, will meet her doubles partner, Martina Navratilova of Czechoslovakia in the final here Saturday in a repeat of the recent Italian Open final in Rome, in which Czech routed the 18-year-old Chris, 6-1, 6-0.

In the men's semifinals Saturday, defender Bjorn Borg of Sweden will play Adriano Panatta of Italy and Eddie Dibbs of Miami Beach, Fla., will take on Guillermo Vilas of Argentina.

Flynn Golf Tourney Set

The Dick Flynn Buick amateur open golf tournament has been set for Hidden Valley golf course Saturday and Sunday.

The tournament, which has an entry fee, will be flighted after Saturday's round.

New Six-Team Conference Set

ATLANTA (UPI) — Georgia Tech Athletic Director Bobby Dodd announced the formation of a new six-team college basketball conference that will include Tech, Cincinnati, Louisville, Memphis State, St. Louis and Tulane.

The new conference will be called the Metropolitan Collegiate Athletic Conference and will begin play with a tournament at the end of the 1975-76 season.

Louisville withdrew from The Missouri Valley Conference Friday to join the new conference. The other five schools were independents.

Washington (UPI) — Former Wyoming Gov. Stanley K. Hathaway, both opposed by environmentalists, was sworn in Friday as interior secretary, he promptly urged development of energy resources with care to protect the quality of the nation's air and water.

The 50-year-old Republican took the oath of office two days after the Senate confirmed his nomination by a 60-36 vote that followed extensive opposition from Democrats who challenged his record on environmental issues during eight years as governor.

Hathaway, Ford's sixth Cabinet nominee, told the President and a crowd of about 1,000 that he was "grateful for the moral support" they gave him during the confirmation hearings.

Then, in apparent response to those doubting his commitment to environmental protection, Hathaway said the nation had learned that natural resources must be consumed with care but "that we cannot rely on conservation alone to provide the energy security we need" to sustain economic growth.

"We must develop, in a prudent and rational manner, more of our domestic energy resources," he said.

"At the same time, there is an equally urgent need to preserve and restore the quality of our air and water and land."

In sum Hathaway said "these tasks will challenge us, but I am confident that the department possesses the expertise and the capability to carry out our mission effectively."

Ford, who nominated Hathaway to fill a vacancy created by his transfer of Rogers C.B. Morton to secretary of commerce, said he was confident Hathaway would see that the nation's environmental needs were given strong consideration in decisions on use of natural resources.

Moscow (UPI) — Kommolskaya Pravda, the newspaper for the Communist Youth League, Friday criticized American pop singer Alice Cooper, and said, "His singing makes the blood run cold."

The newspaper said: "He was an ordinary singer before he found his way to glory using the fashion for horrors. Dressing in devil's attire or in a shroud, floods of artificial blood and bad language are inseparable parts of his act."
